FINED $125 AND
IS SENT TO JAIL

A. E. Kinsley, Custodian of Eagles Lodge, is Found Guilty by Jury in Mayor's Court.

APPEALS TO CIRCUIT COURT

Treasurer of Lodge Testifies Regarding "Social Fund" and How it is Supplied.

One hundred and eighty days in jail and a fine of $125 was what a jury in Mayor Bebout's court last night gave A. E. Kinsley, custodian of Eagles lodge, who was charged with unlawful possession of liquor for the purpose of sale, after conferring over the evidence for two hours.

The jury did not get the case until eleven o'clock and it was one before it was announced a verdict had been reached. The defense today appealed the case to the circuit court and it will be fought out again. The appeal bond was $250.

Gus Meyer, who said he gave to the Eagles the beer which was taken by the police the afternoon of February 16, and who declared he sold electric pianos, but admitted he was formerly an agent for the Indianapolis Brewing company, was the only witness which the defense placed on the stand.

The three members of the Rushville police force and James J. Geraghty, treasurer of the Eagles, were the witnesses called by the state. Mr. Geraghty testified that the lodge had a "social fund" which was derived from "beer, cigars and tobacco." Meyer admitted on cross-examination that the Eagles had had beer on other occasions when he had been there and proved by Policeman Wm. Hardin that they had a fresh keg on tap the night of February 16 after the police had taken one keg to the jail the afternoon of the same day.

On the cross-examination of Meyer, the state brought out the fact that Meyer has a bank account at the Peoples National bank, and he said that "when it got up to $50 or $75," he drew it out; also the fact that he had been employed as an agent for the Indianapolis Brewing company for three years and a half.

The case was prolonged by the argument of the attorneys. After the evidence had been submitted and John A. Tittsworth, who assisted the state, was making the closing plea before the jury, John H. Kiplinger, of the law firm of Kiplinger & Smith, which represented the defense, interrupted Mr. Tittsworth when he called the attention of the jury to the fact that the defendant had not been placed on the stand to testify in his own behalf.

Mr. Kiplinger stopped Mr. Tittsworth immediately and moved that the case be taken from the jury and the jury discharged because counsel for the state had mentioned that Kinsley had not testified. The trial was further delayed when Mr. Kiplinger went to his office to get law books to prove his contention.

Mr. Kiplinger held that had it been in the circuit court and the state had made reference to the thing Mr. Tittsworth did, the judge could have instructed the jury to disregard the reference of the state to the defendant, but that since the court in this instance did not have authority to instruct the jury, there was nothing to do but discharge the jury.

Mr. Tittsworth contended that he did not comment on the fact that the defendant had not testified in his own behalf but simply made the plain statement that the defendant

SUES TO MODIFY
DIVORCE DECREE

John Wolverton Alleges That One Set of Grandparents Object to Children Meeting.

SUIT WAS HEARD 2 YEARS AGO

A petition to modify a divorce decree was filed in the circuit court this morning by John Wolverton. Mr. Wolverton alleges that the children, of his son, Clayton Wolverton, are not being taken care of according to the decree when Mrs. Blanche Wolverton was given a divorce from him. The petition states that Forest, age 12 was given to the custody of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wolverton and that the little girl Etherea, age 7 was given to her mother.

Mr. Wolverton states in asking that the decree be modified, that Etherea is in the care of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Jarvis and that the order of the court is not being obeyed. He alleges that the Jarvis family have refused to let the children visit one another and that the girl's mother spends most of her time in Indianapolis and is not giving the child the proper attention.

REARRESTED ON SIMILAR CHARGE

Otis Johnson Found Not Guilty in Police Court and is Then Arraigned in Circuit Court.

CHARGED WITH STEALING COW

The troubles of John Gray, of Irvington, and Otis Johnson, formerly a tenant on the Gray farm east of the city are on the increase. Following his acquittal in police court this morning on the charge of stealing three hogs, Johnson was rearrested and arraigned in the circuit court on a grand larceny charge, it being alleged that he stole a cow.

The affidavit in the circuit court was also filed by John Gray. Mayor Bebout failed to find enough evidence to convict Johnson on the charge of stealing the three hogs. The hogs were a partnership affair and it was hard to see how Gray could tell one hog from another, according to the court. Johnson was released on $500 in the circuit court with Carlton Chaney as security.

Dr. W. W. Black, of Indiana University Will Make Principal Address—Arranging Program.

The first meeting of the Sixth District Educational Association will be held in this city March 19 and 20. The first session will be held at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening March 19 and the meeting will continue Saturday forenoon. Teachers and others interested throughout the district are expected to attend and an interesting program will be arranged.

The educational association was organized in response to a request of the State Teachers' association. At the last meeting of the state association in Indianapolis plans were advanced for the forming of district associations to study educational problems and the meetings will be of especial benefits to teachers and superintendents.

Dr. W. W. Black, of Indiana University, has been secured by the committee in charge of the local meeting, to make the principal address at the opening session of the district meeting. At this time the committee on permanent organization will make its report and the election of officers will take place.

The teachers in this district are making a special study of handwriting, according to the standard set by the Ayres scale. At the meeting here the tabulated results will be displayed and the subject of handwriting in the schools will be discussed.

An age-grade census of all pupils has also been taken, showing the number of pupils above or below as the number that are normal in their age and school standing. This census will be tabulated and the result will make the topic for an interesting session. The high school teachers will hold a section meeting Saturday morning at which time the teacher-advisor system and vocational guidance will be discussed.

A representative of the state department of public instruction will be present on Saturday and discuss vocational education and school legislation.

CASEY TRIAL POSTPONED

Attorney Ill and it is Set For Tuesday Afternoon.

The trial of Newton Casey, for "bootlegging" was postponed this afternoon until next Tuesday at one-thirty o'clock. The attorney for Casey was ill and sent word that it would be impossible for him to appear and Mayor Bebout granted the postponement. The case was to have been heard by a jury and the "evidence" was taken from the jail to the court room. A large crowd had gathered expecting the trial to be held.

The regular meeting of the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, will be held tonight. Business of importance is to come up and all Sir Knights are urged to be present.

TURMOIL MARKS
END OF CONGRESS

Mad Scramble to Avoid Extra Session as Sixty-Third Congress Stood Adjourned.

IT WAS A RECORD BREAKER

Bangs of Gavels in Both Houses Sounded "Taps" For Several Members at Noon.

(By United Press.)

Washington, March 4.—In turmoil, unprecedented congestion and a mad scramble to avoid an extra session, the Sixty-third Congress—a record breaker in many respects—expired by limitation at noon today.

With an unusual record of legislation accomplished, bangs of gavels in the Senate and House sounded "taps" on the session launched a month ago after President Wilson's inauguration two years ago today.

The President went to his room at the Capitol early to sign the last few bills before the expiring Congress. Crush of belated business threatened invoking of the time-honored expedient of stopping the clock's hands shortly before noon to enable Congress to clean up.

The usual scenes of leavetaking, mixed with pathos and hilarity, were enacted, but tempered by the pressing demands for consideration of real business, piled upon Congress during the last ten days because of the ship purchase bill filibuster. Fate of the ship bill was among the last settled.

Government money was appropriated today in the final rush at the rate of millions an hour. Conference reports on the appropriation bills, held up the last minute, were hurriedly exchanged between the two houses and as hastily approved. Bustle and excitement marked the closing hours of both houses. The full membership of both was present. The turmoil was more subdued in the Senate, but scenes of hilarious jollity marked the House proceedings. "Swan songs" were sung by retiring members. Resolution of felicity were given Speaker Clark and the party leaders. A costly oil painting of himself was the members gift to the retiring Democratic Leader, Rep. Underwood.

In time consumed the Congress which ended today smashed records. It had been in session 637 days. The special session called in April, 1913, leaped into the December session that year which continued until last October, adjoining only five weeks before the present session began last December.

The principal accomplishments of the Sixty-third congress were the following laws:

New tariff and income tax.
New currency system.
Creating a federal trade commission.
Amending the anti-trust act.
Repeal of the Panama canal "free tolls" provision.
Authorizing a government railroad in Alaska.
Empowering use of armed forces in forces in Mexico.
The war tax.
Creating a war risk insurance bureau.
Ratification of 21 peace treaties.
Another spectacular innovation inaugurated by President Wilson was his custom of delivering messages in person to Congress.

With the echo of the adjournment gavels today many big figures in public life retired. Nine Senators and nearly 150 Representatives left the Congress today. The Senators retired today were Senators Root, Bristow, Burton, Stephenson, Per-

He was better known to his friends as "Peck."

A G. Abernathy of Homer, brother of Ed, went to Indianapolis, this morning, and according to word received by Mr. Abernathy's family at noon, he was in a critical condition. Mr. Abernathy was thrown ninety feet and suffered a fractured skull and a fractured right arm.

Illinois Senator Deliver Principal Address at "Get Together" Banquet March 16.

PROGRESSIVES ARE IN LINE

(Special to the Daily Republican.)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 4.—United States Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois will deliver the principal address at a big Republican "get together" banquet that is to be held at Evansville on the night of March 16. On the committee on arrangements for this first district demonstration are U. H. Seiler, who was the Progressive nominee for Congress in the first district at the recent election Samuel E. Crumpacker, who was chairman of the First district Progressive committee in 1914 and J. R. Duncan, an Evansville merchant who was active in the Progressive party from the time it was born until election day in 1914. All are now enthusiastic Republicans.

"The Republican party is again reunited in the First district" said Albert Funkhauser, of Evansville, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the coming banquet, while in Indianapolis the other day. "Not only are we in old time form but the enthusiasm is rampant. The Republicans in our part of the state are coming into their own at the very earliest moment possible. The swing is our way all along the line. The country has had enough of Democracy."

Senator Van Auker Prepares to Introduce Substitute Measure For Jones Bill.

SEVERAL NEW FEATURES

Senate Passes Bill Providing Nine Men May Try Civil Case—Barrett Amendment Killed.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 4.—The fight for the state-wide primary measure appeared to be won this afternoon. Senator Van Auker, the chief foe of the primary, went into the caucus of the Democrats with a bill which contains many features of the platform measure.

Those who oppose primary legislation on the subject would be the action of those who favor the original bill. Senator Ballou sent up a written motion that the Jones bill be taken out of committee but Lieutenant Governor O'Neil did not order the motion read. Senator Ballou stated that he would read the motion himself before the senate adjourned.

The Van Auker bill provides for township, county, city and legislative primaries and also provides for preferential ballots for president, vice-president, United States senator and other constitutional offices.

Representative Jones and his followers object to the Van Auker bill because it does not follow the platform of the Democrats. A second choice voting is also another feature of the Van Auker bill.

The house was expectant this afternoon that the suffrage issue would burst upon it at any time. The bomb was expected to come in the form of a resolution asking that Representative Sare report on the bill.

The bill providing that nine men sit on a jury in civil suits, where it is agreed upon before starting the trial passed the senate by a vote of 32 to 3. The object of the bill is to expedite trials of civil cases in the courts.

The amendment to the Barrett law providing for full payment of interest before the ten year limit was lost in the senate for lack of a constitutional majority. The vote was 23 to 18. Senator Thornton led the opposition.

LUNCHEON TOMORROW

The local club women will hold a luncheon Friday from eleven o'clock until three at the Scanlan House at which time plans for the coming convention to be held in this city will be discussed. Committees will be appointed and other officers named to carry out the convention.

General Farming Instead of One Certain Crop is Being Urged All Over the South.

WAR STARTED REDUCTION

Texas Industrial Congress is Working For Better Methods by Offering Prizes.

Dallas, Texas, March 4.—"Let Texas Feed Itself" is the slogan of a diversified farming campaign that finds its counterpart today in every state in the South. General farming instead of all cotton is being urged by practically every newspaper, banker, storekeeper and agricultural expert in the Southland. Hundreds of lectures are in the field, armed with proof of the greater profit diversification. The mistake of selling a dollar's worth and importing three dollar's worth of foodstuffs is being brought home to cotton growers everywhere.

The failure to obtain good prices for the bumper 1914 cotton crop, as a result of the European war, started a cotton acreage reduction campaign. How deep the lesson of the war struck into cotton planters' hearts will not be accurately known until the census bureau at Washington estimates the acreage this coming season. But the first estimate of the winter wheat acreage will give some hint as to the cotton situation because tens of thousands of acres previously planted in cotton have been sowed in wheat. Field workers have reported hundreds of instances of old cotton patches planted for wheat.

The Texas Industrial Congress, an endowed organization working for better farming methods, diversification and dairying, has given general farming an impetus by distributing $10,000 in cash prizes to high record producers of wheat, corn, maize, peanuts and many other articles as well as cotton.

Diversification leagues are being formed in every Texas county. Bankers in several communities are advancing money on easy terms to start former cotton planters in the live stock industry.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

Grandma kept her locks dark, glossy and thick with a simple mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

Military Training In High School Should Be Carefully Supervised

BY BURTON K. STANDISH.
(Written for United Press.)

Washington, Mar. 4.—High school military training, unless carefully supervised and directed, will work evil rather than good, in the opinion of Secretary of War Garrison.

So to prevent the widespread agitation of such training from becoming a detriment to the nation, he intends soon to inaugurate a movement whereby this may be correlated and properly directed.

He announced today that he will try soon to get together a group of representative citizens from various communities to confer with a body of military experts from his department.

In this proposed conference, a plan will be mapped out whereby military training may be used in the schools to the advantage of all concerned.

He decided on this measure only after careful study of the situation, and after hundreds of letters had suggested to him that the recent preparedness discussions had produced throughout the nation a movement for military training everywhere.

The secretary of the navy explained that, in many respects he believed the public schools of today attempted too wide a range. And to make military training effective, he held it must not be too ambitious a program, thrown in as a part of an undigested whole.

"When I went to school," he commented, "there were too many subjects. We had drawing a while, geography a while, and then trigonometry and calculus. Many of us didn't even know how to spell calculus, much less did we know what it was all about. For this reason, I have always felt that there should be more selection about school courses."

WAR NEWS FEATURE

Petrograd, Feb. 15. (By mail to New York)—Russian soldiers are quite as prone to nickname their generals as are the fighters of other countries. Most of the names find their origin in some physical or mental characteristic of the subject. For instance Grand Duke Nicholas the giant Commander-in-Chief, obviously could not escape the appellation "Big Nick."

Gen. Ivanoff, who commands in the south-west is called "Turcoman" because of his very black beard. For General Ruzski, now commanding the north-west group of armies there are several nicknames. The best known is "the scholarly private" but this, it appears was invented by an officer. Soldiers call him "Yellow tire." The general's motor-car lost a wheel and the tire on the new wheel is bright yellow.

The Austrian generals best known to the Russian soldiers are Generals Danki and General Von Hoetzendorf. Danki is called "the fox," and also "General Spasibo." "Spasibo" is Russian for "Thanks." The soldiers confuse his name with the German "Danke" the first word they hear from Austrian prisoners to whom they have shown attention. General Conrad is called "Vienna."

London, Feb. 10. (By mail to New York)—How the German gunners used up fifty "coal boxes" to kill a chicken is told by Gunner M. L. Gregory, of the 5th Siege Battery, Royal Garrison Artillery. "We were ordered to take up a position near—to deal with a battery of German 11 inch guns" he says. "Rain came down in torrents but we got our guns into position, though it was no easy task as we were ankle-deep in mud. Before daylight we prepared for action, and at 6:45 the signal was given."

"The roar of our guns and the screaming of shells through the air made it almost impossible for us to know whether the shells were coming or going. Still we went on, not in the least concerned. About fifteen minutes later, while we were still sending our 'souvenirs,' three great 11-inch German shells 'came clean' over our heads. There was a terrific explosion and on looking round I saw that the 'coal boxes' had burst clear of our battery. We continued firing and the Germans replied. In all they sent more than fifty 11 inch of military training, I feel that we should not rush into it without careful consideration. We should not have the idea that schools can accomplish the purpose of turning school boys into trained soldiers. We must see to it that the training is properly supervised and properly apportioned."

He indicated that he is in hearty accord with the general principle involved but that he did not feel that it should be like many popular movements—"going up like a rocket and coming down like a stick."

"It is all very easy for the outsider to say, 'yes that's a great idea; let's have it.' But it is another thing to map it out, and make it efficient. For that reason I want to call in interested citizens to confer with army experts I shall plan to do this as soon as possible."

The Secretary's idea would be to make such training in schools an attractive part of the curriculum, instead of a burden or hardship which students would avoid as they sometimes do difficult studies.

As far as the war department is now concerned, it has no branch dealing directly with the general subject of school military training. The department is limited to actual training, and to direction of state militia work, but Secretary Garrison feels that without new appropriations at this time, his organization can be distinct benefit as a guide to communities, with militaristic ideas.

Incidentally, it was suggested today that community military training would be in line with President Wilson's expressed theories against converting America into an army camp, but in favor of equipping men with a fundamental knowledge of military training in their leisure moments.

shells, and as far as I know they killed—a chicken. Although our guns are not as big as the 'coal-box purveyors' we did very well, and by eleven o'clock that morning our infantry were able to advance. We captured the enemy's first line trenches and a good number of prisoners. The artillery work was greatly praised by our general." The British guns are probably the 6-in siege guns of which Sir John French expressed his appreciation.

Let the Pigs Grunt

Let the pigs do the grunting.
There is better work ahead for us.
Grunting never lessened the burden of a load, never pulled a community out of a rut, never added a dollar to any man's bank account.
Grunting makes pessimists, and pessimists have bad livers, and poor digestions, and sour countenances, and are general nuisances all around.
And pessimists are always grunting
about something.
They grunt if times are bad; they grunt because they are not better when they are good; they grunt over their meals, and over politics, and religion, and anything else that offers a chance to grunt.
And then they grunt because there is nothing left to grunt about.
Grunting is a habit with them—
it is their daily pastime—and nothing is so dear to their hearts as a great, big, unadulterated grunt.
Many of us grunt a part of the time, but some folks grunt all of the time.
Now let's quit grunting.
Let's get down to hard tacks and dig a lot of wealth out of this community. It's here, but grunting won't do the digging.
Let's make this the greatest productive year in local history.
Let's get out and hustle—let's find the opportunities, or make them where none exist.
The soil is as rich today as it was a year ago, and it will produce as much and the products will sell for more money.
There is nothing produced in this for it. If we don't see the market, let's get out and find it. Time is too short for it to hunt us.

Let's not sit on dry goods boxes and wait for the world to come to our feet. We will die grunting if we do.

There's a great big place for us in the world. Let's fill it—let's do something—let's let the rest of the world know that we are alive, that we are producers, that we are something more than grunters.

Let's be optimists—for optimists
do things, and never grunt.

Let the pigs do the grunting.

There are better times and more congenial work ahead for us.

Let's all get busy and whoop it up.

China unwittingly perpetrated a monumental joke when she begged the United States to protect her from the encroachments of Japan.
Uncle Sam would have difficulty in protecting his own national hide.
Nations cannot fight without munitions of war.

Robert J. Thompson, former American counsel at Aix la Chapelle Germany, wants congress to appoint a commission to secure peace in Europe. And we want congress to keep its mouth shut and its nose at home.

Fashion has decreed that woman must reduce in weight in order to wear the latest gowns. What a calamity for those who cannot reduce,
and yet will not wear an out-of-date garment!

Here's a bully good idea! Let's have a law requiring every senator and congressman who votes for war enlist and go to the front. Then There'll be no war!

Why buy big guns for coast defenses? Once started, congress can rear loud enough for all belligerent purposes.

Disappointing! The flight of Haiti's president could only command an inch of space in the daily press.

In the event of hostilities we might borrow a few of those guns we obligingly shipped down to Mexico.

A hundred million mouths with which to protest, and nothing with which to fight! Huh!

Buck up! Be a sport! Sinking American ships may become an old story in time.

Hello, Mex.! How many presidents have abdicated today?

Don't shout for war until you are ready to go yourself.

It's easy to quit and just as easy to stay quit.

What the Solons Are Doing; Legislative Facts---By Expert

Prepared for the United Press by John A. Lapp, director of the Bureau of Legislative Information.

(Mr. Lapp will answer questions relating to the work of the Legislature, including legislative organization and methods, pending bills and enacted laws. Questions on the merits of men or measures will not be answered. To avoid delay address all questions direct to the United Press, 36½ West Washington St., Indianapolis.
Questions may be sent to the Daily Republican if preferred.)

Interested woman writes: "What are some of the advantages of a short session such as Indiana has over unrestrained ones like in Illinois?"

Reply—Indiana's session is too short for the extensive and complicated work to be done, but the short session has the advantage of urging more rapid work and organization at the beginning. Illinois has for several years had a deadlock lasting several weeks. They proceed slowly and usually rush everything through the last few days. In 1907 the Illinois house passed 118 bills the last night of the session. No such a spectacle was ever witnessed in Indiana.

Economist writes: "Has anyone figured the cost per minute while the assembly is in session?"

Reply—Each day of the session costs something over $2,000. If the house and senate are in session for five hours each, the cost per hour would be $400, or $6.66 per minute, or $3.33 for each house per minute.

Voter writes: "How many states have adopted the state-wide primary and what proportion of these have later repealed it?"

Reply—Thirty-eight states have

state-wide, direct primary laws.
Two others have partial direct primary laws. No state has ever given up the system when once established except Montana, which in 1907 repealed a poor law enacted in 1905.

Stingy writes—"What is the average cost to the state per bill introduced?"

Reply—In the 1913 legislature there were 1,339 bills introduced.
The cost of the session was approximately $160,000. Therefore the average cost would be about $120.
This year the number of bills is smaller and the cost lower, but the average cost is about the same.

High School Boy writes: "Is it proper for the legislature to continue its work on the final night after midnight even if the clock is turned ahead?"

Reply—The constitution requires that no bill be presented to the governor within two days of final adjournment but it has been customary to pass bills late on the last night and often in the early hours of the following morning. It is entirely in the discretion of the Governor whether such bills shall be received by him. No court decision has declared whether such bills are constitutional.

Muncie writes—"What is class legislation?"

Reply—Class legislation is a law which applies differently to different classes of citizens. Whereas the law should apply to all citizens alike.

Areonaut Relates How He Almost Dropped Some Bombs In Mexico

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD
(By U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

London, Feb. 10. (By mail to New York)—Lee Hedgson is over here wondering why, in the name of goodness, he didn't take a try at wiping out Oroscio's rebel army in Mexico, single-handed when he had a chance.

He's an Englishman and he now belongs to the Royal Corps and will shortly go to the front. Here's the way he talks about his lost chance at the Mexican rebels:

"You remember when you used to see me round El Paso during the Oroscio revolution against Madero in the spring of 1913? Well, I had big things under way then, though I couldn't tell any of the newspapermen about it at the time. I came to El Paso because Felix Sommerfeld, Madero's agent wanted me to fly over into Mexico and locate Oroscio's forces and also to do what damage
I could to them with air bombs.
There was a fancy price attached to the stunt and I brought my machine secretly to El Paso and cached it under the grandstand at the ball park, waiting for a good time to start.

"But there were three sets of secret service men in El Paso three years ago; the Americans government agents, the Maderista agents and the rebel agents and between them somehow, my secret got out.

"If I had known what the flying men know now about what an aero-plane can do in warfare, I wouldn't have been worried in the least, but I felt that if Oroscio's men knew that I might fly over them any day they would be ready for me and hanging would be my portion, if I came down alive. So I delayed my start, thinking things over.

"At last I got up my nerve and told Sommerfeld I would take a chance. How to get the machine together and get started on my flight was the next problem. Sommerfeld solved it. He put up the money and he arranged for an aero meeting at the baseball park. I was to be the only flyer and the idea was that, as soon as I got off the ground, I was to start across the Rio Grande and do my work.

"And right at this point, Col. E. Z.
Steever, who had charge of the American troops, at El Paso stepped in. His secret service men had learned of my plan and he sent word to me that if I crossed the Rio Grande his soldiers would be ordered to bring me down with their rifles.
I never did know whether Col.
Steever had any right to take such a step, but the thought of American sharpshooters putting away at me was too much and so I gave up the plan."

"But the things that have been learned about aeroplanes fighting in this war in Europe show me that I could have left the United States without the slightest danger from American bullets and that I would have been perfectly safe, barring such accidents as might happen to any machine in peace times, over the Mexican rebels.

"Half a year of aeroplane fighting
here in Europe, has proved, beyond a doubt that an aeroplane, at a height of 4,000 feet is almost uninhabitable. I could have spiraled up above that baseball grounds that day until I had reached 4,000 feet and then I could have sailed across the Rio Grande with perfect safety though it was only three years ago,
an aeroplane would have scared a Mexican army to death and I can't imagine what influence my bombs would have had on Oroscio's hem-bres.

"But I didn't know about the safety from bullets of the 4,000 feet elevation and so the job was called off.

"But is an aeroplane really safe at a height of 4,000 feet?"

"Yes indeed. It works out like this: Any shot that hits either the pilot or the vital part of an aero-plane at that elevation is the wildest kind of a chance shot. It's like trying to hit a flying duck, with a rifle, right through its little heart.
Did you ever hear of the fanciest rifle shot in the west trying to hit a certain feather on a flying bird or guaranteeing to pick a flying bird in a certain part of its anatomy. Shooting isn't done that nicely. And the vital part of an aeroplane, at a height of 4,000 feet, isn't as big as the point of a lead pencil. I've seen western men in America cut a visiting card placed edgewise with a rifle bullet, at 50 yards, but the card wasn't traveling at the rate of 60 miles an hour.

"The aeroplane has got all the best of it in warfare and I only wish I had known it, back in those days of Oroscio's rampage."

HOW RUSHVILLE MAN CURED HIS BACKACHE

Points the Way, in Letter to All Who Suffer as He Did

Mr. Harry Carel of 609 West Ninth street, Rushville, Ind., says: "My back nearly killed me." I suffered continually with sharp, shooting pains; I could not raise up and when I stooped you would think I was being killed—I would scream aloud. My kidneys were in a highly congested condition and bothered me a great deal at night. I thought I would never get relief as I tried most everything. Finally Lloyd's Kidney and Rheumatism Tablets came to my attention. I heard that Lloyd's was a new scientific prescription and a sure cure. After taking them only a short time, I found the pain had left me entirely and now after a few weeks I am glad to say that I am entirely relieved. I can not recommend Lloyd's too highly. Certainly cured me of a long standing case."

TEAM IS READY FOR RICHMOND

If Confidence Counts for Anything Then Rushville is as Good as Headed for Bloomington

LOCALS IN GOOD CONDITION

Expect to Get There in Time for Light Work Out on Coliseum Floor—Opens Tournament.

The Rushville basketball team is in fine shape for the district tournament games, which start Friday night in Richmond. The Rushville team will open the tourney on Friday night by playing the Mooreland team and according to the dope this game should be little more than a practice game for Rushville.

The team will leave here tomorrow morning and expects to take a light work out on the Coliseum floor in Richmond. The floor is big and the locals desire to get accustomed to it before they actually play a game. The team has practiced every night this week in perfecting team play and the team that beats Rushville will know it has been in a basketball game.

Coch Burns will use his regular lineup consisting of Titsworth and Stoops forwards; Martin, center and Brecheisen and Winslow guards. All are in good physical condition and the team has plenty of confidence. If confidence counts for anything then Rushville is already on the way to Bloomington for the state meet. The team expects to beat Mooreland as a starter, and then the next game is likely to be with Richmond. The Rushville team is just as confident of beating Richmond and the only team in the tournament that Rushville really fears is Newcastle and this is not very great.

Richmond and Newcastle papers can see only Newcastle and Richmond fighting it out in the final game but Rushville supporters believe their team will fight it out and it will be with either Newcastle or Brookville. The Brookville team is not to be made light of and this team should beat Hagerstown despite all predictions to the contrary. The following from the Newcastle Courier is a fair example of dope as handed out in Newcastle and Richmond:

According to the dope on the tournament, Rushville should win from Mooreland in the first game and in the second game would meet Richmond, which can easily defeat Cadiz. In this contest Richmond should be returned winner and then would be in the finals Saturday night. In the other branch of the series, Newcastle, having twice easily defeated Connersville during the season, should win again on a neutral floor. This would stack the local squad against the winner of the Hagerstown-Brookville game, which Richmond figures, will be Hagerstown, but may be Brookville.

The locals are confident of winning over Hagerstown, if that team wins and should be able to win handily from the lads from Brookville. This would bring them up to the final game in the evening, when with Richmond they would fight it out for the honors of the district. Of course, all this is merely dope and sometimes dope does not count for a great deal especially in basketball, but again dope often hits the mark just right and in case it does, the Newcastle five will return from Richmond Sunday morning the champions of the Richmond district.

The following is the list of Newcastle players who will go to Richmond to fight out matters in the tournament: H. Kampe and Thad Gordon, forwards; Capt. Victor Lawson, center; Bryon Williams, Glenn Christman, George Ross and W. Kampe, guards. Several shifts have been tried against the second team and all have worked successfully in perfecting the plans to give one of the forwards a rest if necessary, as well as to rest up one of the guards.

GRIFFITH IS OUT FOR FLAG

Washington Team, According to Dope, Will at Least Finish in First Division.

JOHNSON EXPECTS BIG YEAR

Now in Training at Charlottesville, Va.—Seven New Men Fight For Positions on Team.

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, March 4.—It's the same old song—"wait 'till next year"—but the Fans along the Potomac are joining in stronger on the chorus than they used to.

Now that the dope specialists have assigned Griffith's American League Climbers to a place among the first four likely candidates for bunting honors next fall, the Old Fox's tribe is flocking in from the provinces for the spring training camp at Charlottesville, Va.

Charlottesville is some three hours ride from Washington and the Senators on February 28, left for Dixie. Just why Charlottesville should be selected for this honor has never been learned. In previous years, the Nationals have done most of their training in the Fayerweather gymnasium of the University of Virginia and it has suggested that Griffith train his squad in the local Y. M. C. A. and save carfare.

The first squad, which departed on February 28, was mostly rookies, with Mick Altrock, Coach Ryan and Trainer Martin along to chaperon the boys and tuck them into bed at 10 sharp each night. On March 7, Clark Griffith and his regular squad will make their appearance in the Old Dominion and the spring work will be on.

The first squad to leave included 12 of the "likely youngsters" on President Minor's payroll, including a couple of newcomers in the shape of two promising young pitchers, Thormablin and Hopper. The other members of the first squad were Engel, Gallia, Shaw, Ayres, Boehling, Ainsmith and Williams, catchers; and the two coaches.

On March 7, Griffith will head a delegation, consisting of Walter Johnson, "Chick" Gandil, Morgan, McBride, Foster, Milan, Moeller, Shanks, Rondeau, Massey, Brown, Reinhard, the last four being newcomers; Pick, Neff and the little Cuban, Acosta.

This gives seven new men to contend with the regulars for positions in the mid-season lineup. Walter Johnson is the only pitcher who did not go south with the first squad. Johnson is a wizard at conditioning himself and always rounds into form under his own treatment better than by taking the camp routine.

Johnson is expecting another big year and the alleged prejudice against him, caused by Walter's rather careless league-jumping tactics, is expected to vanish the first time he moves down three in the ninth.

Howard Shanks' position in the outfield is said to be in danger, because of weak hitting and unless he improves, there is a strong possibility that he will occupy the bench for a spell. Second base is also causing Griffith considerable worry. Morgan has been notified that he must report in condition, as Neff and Pick, the two youngsters, have showed lots of class and are simply itching for the job as a regular diversion.

All Washington realizes that Clark Griffith is out after the flag this year as he never was before. Things looked pretty black, last winter when it seemed that the Feds had acquired Griffith's big finger, Walter Johnson, but despite the murmurings of unpopularity, it was a very joyful local fad that saw Johnson back safe in the fold and facing a brilliant season.

Griffith has, in addition to the shape of Bentley, Boehling and Harper, Boehling, of course, jumped into the limelight with his 11 straight victories back in 1912 and while he has not equalled that record in the two intervening seasons, he is expected to outdo himself the coming year, when every one of the Nationals will be up on his toes, fighting for a little rag of bunting and the very substantial pecuniary and professional reward that goes with it.

Rushville People Praise Simple Mixture

Many in Rushville praise the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka. This remedy is the most THOROUGH bowel cleanser ever sold being even used successfully in appendicitis. ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gassy stomach. ONE MINUTE after you take it the gasses rumble and pass out. Adler-i-ka cannot gripe and the INSTANT action is surprising. F. E. Wolcott, druggist.

TRADE BALANCE IN OUR FAVOR

Wall Street, However, Has Quite a Time in Figuring Out Difference in Money Values

VALUE OF POUND SLUMPS

Exports Exceed Imports But Difficulty is in Change of Foreign Money Values

BY CARLTON TEN EYCK
(Written for United Press.)
New York, March 3.—
Four farthings are one pence, Twelve pence are one shilling, Twenty shillings make a pound.

The arithmetics taught that, but all Wall Street is wondering every morning now just how much a pound is worth in dollars and cents, and exporters who figure their margins closely chuckle or curse, depending on how their contracts with European firms are drawn.

The cause of it is too much business and the sudden swing of America from the red to the blue side of the ledger. Once we were in everybody's debt; now it is the other way, for exports are exceeding imports, and the balance of trade is, in our favor.

A few days ago there was a flurry in the foreign exchange market. The story was on the financial pages, and those who do not depend on the markets for sustenance, or amusement probably passed it by, but it meant much to Wall Street and more to American exporters.

The busiest men in New York on the days the market broke were the heads of the foreign departments of the big banks.

"I have been working every night until 11 o'clock since the first break," said Max May, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company, who is in charge of that bank's foreign department. Cable boys raced in and out of his office and clerks hurried foreign drafts galore on his desk as he explained what "demand sterling 4.791/8" meant.

"It is simply a case of supply and demand," he said. "The balance of trade is all on our side now. We are exporting to Europe and importing only a little. There is more foreign exchange than demand for foreign exchange, and the European nations are holding on to their gold. We must take their paper."

To put it more plainly, a pound check, once worth $4.86 in American money, was worth, on the day the market slumped, only $4.79.

"No one can tell how long the condition will last," said May. "American exporters stand to lose large sums of money, if they agreed to accept pounds for their goods."

Other men in Wall Street declared, however, that the "dollar exchange," instead of "sterling," is becoming more generally in use, and that many big concerns insisted on the former when they began to realize that big business might mean too much business unless payments were made in gold.

Exporters who billed their shipments as payable in dollars will reap big profits if they are able to hold their British and other foreign paper until the market rises again. The receiver of American goods must pay the premium of exchange, in this case, which means an additional profit of about one per cent. to the exporters.

But the business interests of Great Britain, buyers of American goods in huge quantities, are gradually letting loose of their gold. They find themselves in the position of the man who is overdrawn at his bank and has to pay a premium to get money. Consequently, there were a few big gold shipments to America when the first slump came in the exchange market, and British gold was deposited in American banks to meet the bills of exchange.

And a sovereign that clicks and shines like an American five dollar gold piece, is worth as much as it ever was before.

Some of the bankers, including

May, believed that Germany's submarine blockade it is proved a lasting barrier to trade, would bring the rate of exchange back to normal again. They figured that American business men then would be glad to get British paper, or any kind of paper for their products, and needing the business, wouldn't worry whether a pound was worth four dollars and eighty six cents or four, seventy-five.

GOOD SHOWING IN HIGH BRED HORSES

Nearly Half of Rush County Stallions Enrolled at Purdue are Pure Bred.

JUST FIVE MARKED UNSOUND

Of the fifty-five stallions in Rush county that are enrolled with the state board of enrollment at Purdue university at Lafayette, twenty-two are pure bred and only five out of the fifty-five are unsound, according to circular No. 4 issued by the board and containing the report of the stallion enrollment work up to October 31, 1914. The animals have been enrolled under the following headings: three pure-bred Belgian (one unsound); one pure-bred Clydesdale; 9 pure-bred Percheron (one unsound); one pure-bred Shire; eight pure-bred grade Percheron; 1 grade Shire; seven grade Standard bred; fourteen scrubs (three unsound.)

The county is not up to several in the total number but in the percentage of pure bred stock, Rush is among the leaders. Madison county with Anderson as the county seat, has 122 animals enrolled, but only 57 are pure bred; while Montgomery county, Crawfordsville the county seat, has only 39 pure bred out of 122 of all kinds. Putnam county in which Greencastle is located, has 143 animals, the highest number for any county in the state, but only 33 of them are pure bred. Delaware county, with Muncie has 59 horses out of which 28 are pure-bred, Henry county, the home of the good horse and the true lover of horse flesh, has 50 pure bred animals out of a total of 96, a total percentage of 52.

had not testified and intended to proceed with a statement about other parts of the evidence when he was stopped.

Mr. Tittsworth was willing to admit that the court might admonish the jury not to consider his statement regarding the defendant.

The court ruled that the state's representative be allowed to proceed with his argument. Mr. Tittsworth called attention to the fact that the only witness the defense had was a man who admitted that he had been a brewery agent and who still carried his sign with him. He mentioned that the treasurer of the lodge, an honest, straightforward man, had testified that the lodge had a "social fund" and told how it was supplied. Mr. Tittsworth also asked the jury to consider the fact that no officer of the lodge, no member of the social committee nor any member of the lodge had been placed on the stand to explain away these things which had been brought up in cross-examination of the defense's only witness and the direct examination of the state's witness.

The defense's chief argument before the jury was laying stress on the fact that the defense was clothed with innocence by the law and that the jury could not find him guilty unless they were convinced of the fact beyond any reasonable doubt. Mr. Kiplinger asked the jurors to remember that they had taken an oath to try the defendant fairly and impartially. He cited a case where a court had ruled that a man who had given a friend a drink of liquor in his home was not guilty.

Mr. Kiplinger held that the decision of a case in the state supreme court, written by Judge Douglas Morris of this city, was not similar to this one because in that instance it had been shown that the Larks lodge at Portland, Ind., kept beer in a cooler, had a regular bar and that beer was sold for coupons.

Mr. Tittsworth, in his argument, replying to the defense's argument that the defendant should be clothed with the presumption that he was innocent until he was proved guilty beyond any reasonable doubt, said that the jury, as well as owing this consideration to the defendant, should consider the rights of the citizens of Rushville. He said the community had a right to be protected by law. He declared that the man who did not belong to the Eagles lodge might rightfully say that it was not fair to vote the saloons away from him and still allow a lodge to keep beer unlawfully for sale.

The state brought out in the testimony of Chief of Police Rosen-erance, Policeman Hardin and Yakey that there was an improvised bar from "six to eight feet" long in a back room at the Eagles lodge and that on a shelf underneath the bar were beer glasses variously estimated by the witnesses to number from eighteen to two dozen. The witnesses also testified there was a damp bar cloth and that there were a half dozen salt and pepper containers under the bar.

To offset this testimony, the defense tried to show the jury that there was a kitchen immediately behind the "bar," which connected up with it by a door and that the so-called bar was used to set out plate lunches.

The state's witnesses testified that there were a half dozen men in the room when they arrived and that they all helped themselves freely of the beer, which was pumped from the keg. They testified they did not see a sale and that all seemed "to help themselves," with one exception, when Kinsley drew a glass for another man. Policeman Yakey said Kinsley "seemed to be in charge."

The state also brought in evidence that the police saw empty beer kegs variously estimated from eleven to sixteen in number. In the opening argument the state showed that, under the affidavit, it did not have to show a specific sale, but only the unlawful possession of liquor for sale.

The defense objected when the state asked the chief of police if the Eagles had a government license. The treasurer of the lodge later denied that the Eagles had taken out a government license to sell liquor.

On direct examination the defense's only witness testified he had treated the Eagles with a keg of beer which the police took February 16 because they bought an electric piano. He first said he sold the piano about February 12, but when "pinned down" in cross-examination said it was sold January 12. He said the last note was due on it February 12 and that he had come down here to collect it February 16. By questioning him, the state developed that he did not get the money but that it was applied to his account at the bank. Then it was brought that he kept an account here although he lived in Indianapolis and had sold only one other piano in Rushville.

Meyer testified that he quit the Indianapolis Brewing company April 7, 1913, and denied he was still in the company's employe. He admitted he had sent a keg of beer here once before and that he frequently "dropped in on" the lodge here. He testified that on a number of occasions they had beer to drink and that once there were so many present beer had to be served upstairs also. Plate lunches had been served some times, he said. He was asked who paid for it and replied it was free. In reply to the question who paid for the lunch, he said he supposed it came from the "social fund" derived from the sale of beer, liquor and cigars, as was done in the Indianapolis lodge. Meyer was asked if he did not tell the chief of police if he was called to testify he would have to say there was a bar because it was where his goods went over, but he denied it.

This developed the "social fund" feature of the case and caused the state to call the lodge treasurer who testified in regard to it.

everything, when you've sat up nights wrapping up your toes in bandages, smearing on salves that rub off or swell up the corn, pasting on cotton plasters that make corns pop-eyed, slaughtering your toes with razors, jabbing them with knives and prying to the quick with scissors—and then you put on 2 drops of "GETS-IT" and see your corn fall right off—why, it just looks like a miracle. Just try it. "GETS-IT" never fails. No pain, no trouble. Use it for any corn, callus, wart or bunion.

DANGER FROM SPRING FIRES

Forest Service Warns People of Rocky Mountains Region—Two Occurred in January.

REGARDED AS SIGNIFICANT

Snow Fall Below Normal and Much Dry Weather Given as Cause—Increase in Oats Crop.

(By United Press.)

Washington, March 4.—The possibility of a dangerous spring and summer fire season in the national forests in the west is presaged by reports that two forest fires occurred in January and that the snowfall in much of the Rocky Mountain region and in the foothills has been much below normal, the Forest Service announces.

January fires are almost unheard of in the national forests and the snow reports are regarded as especially significant, as they indicate that unless the deficiency is made up the forests will be dry earlier in the spring than usual, with consequent increases of the fire menace.

The fires reported occurred in the Pike forest, in Colorado, and in the Black hill forest, in South Dakota. The latter is believed to have been of incendiary origin, according to the district forester at Denver. The total area burned over comprised about 75 acres.

The district forester at Ogden, Utah, in charge of the national forests in Nevada, Utah, and southern Idaho, reported that the snow fall in this region also is below normal.

Further investigation shows that the manufacturers frequently have employed a sufficient quantity of pepsin, diastase, pancreatin, trypsin, or similar material but in many cases no attempt has been made to determine whether the material used is really active. In certain cases manufacturers have combined pepsin and trypsin, which tend to negative each other.

"The great trouble with many of these preparations," says the department, "is that they don't keep well, and while active at first after a time lose their digestive activity. The department, therefore, warns manufacturers that preparations claiming to contain digestive enzymes should be up in such a way that they will have suffered little, if any, loss of activity when sold."

A significant indication of the spread of southern interest in diversified farming is contained in the estimate of the Bureau of Crop Estimates that more than double the quantity of oats—102 per cent, to be exact—was sown in the cotton states last fall than in 1913.

The fall sowings in 1913 amounted to approximately 1,872,000 acres; in 1914 to 3,775,000 acres, an increase of 1,903,000 acres. If the same acreage is sown to spring oats this year as last, the 1915 crop in the cotton states will be more than 6,257,000 acres. Recent reports, moreover, indicate an intention to increase the spring sowings as well.

The increase in the fall sowing of wheat, though not so great as with oats, is still very considerable. It amounts to 1,812,000 acres, or an increase of 33 per cent. The total increase in the acreage sown to fall wheat and oats is 3,700,000, or more than 10 per cent. of the land planted in cotton in the spring of 1914. Even if the spring seedlings of oats and wheat show no departure from the practice of former years, this decrease of 10 per cent in the cotton acreage will be appreciable, says the Department of Agriculture.

The Department of Agriculture has been carrying on experiments to determine the adaptability of the vinifera of California from which raisins and wine are made to various other climates and soils in the United States. The re-establishment of the culture of the native American grape in New Jersey has also been investigated.

In co-operation with the Bureau of Chemistry, the best methods of preparing fruit juices from apple, pineapples, and other fruits have been determined. The ripening of bananas has also been the subject of study.

Improvement of citrus fruits, especially oranges, lemons, and pomeles, through but selections and breeding is now being carried on in California and the production of improved strains and types resulting from this work will afford growers a basis for new stock on new plantation or for replacing undesirable plantations.

As a result of the study by the Department, great impetus is expected to be added to the planting of pecan trees.

SOME CRIMINALS SEE THEMSELVES IN MOVIES.

By Beau Rialto.
(Written for United Press.)

New York, Feb. 27.—A thousand murderers, hold-up, men, forgers, bank robbers, petty thieves, and men who had been sent up the river for every crime under the sun, saw themselves in the movies the other day, and fraternized with the actors who had lived among them for three days while "Alias Jimmy Valentine" was being filmed at Sing Sing.

The producing company took a special train to the prison to present the film for the first time before the convicts, Robert Warwick the star of the film, saw himself in convict's garb on the screen.

One never would have known that the audience was made up of convicts if the windows had not been barred, for there was not a guard in the room, and, under Warden Osborne's regime at Sing Sing, there are no cropped heads or stripes. It is all honor system.

The convicts are the most appreciative film and "legit" audience in the east.

A stroll along the Railto shows that spring is coming. There is always at least one Viennese operetta every spring. "The Peasant Girl" is one of that kind and it opens Monday night at the Forty-Fourth street theatre.

Easter Monday, De Wolf Hopper and Gilbert and Sullivan Opera company will revive a number of the G and S. compositions at the Shubert Playhouses, as a spring tonic.

The Neighborhood Settlement, at 466 Grand Street, has a theatre all of its own, and is proving that the poor have dramatic talent. Playlets and popular entertainments are being given with only nominal admission charges, and those who receive the benefits of the settlement are appearing in the casts.

"Several years ago I called on Lane & Evans to buy a pump and they almost forced me to buy one of your Fig. 28 Red Jacket Double-Acting Force Pumps and fifty feet of hose when I only intended to buy a cheap set length pump. Mr. Lane put up such strong argument on 'fire protection' that I followed his advice and bought the Fig. 28, little thinking that it would be of any service to me in that respect. Shortly after the pump was installed, my barn caught fire and had it not been for this pump and hose and the thoughtfulness of Mrs. Barnett, my barn, house and all buildings on the place would have been destroyed."

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts: take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

SOCIAL SURVEY IS COMPLETED

Illinois Capitol Awaits Report of Investigators Sent Out from New York—Many Big Volumes

EXHIBITION WAS SIGNED

Expect That They Found Much Good in City and Only Average Assortment of the Bad

(By United Press.)

Springfield, Ill., March 4.—Within a few days the city will receive the final reports on the already famous "social survey." Twenty-one investigators came down upon the city during last spring, looked the place over counted and measured, filled many note books, made numerous maps and diagrams, and went back to New York to determine the height and depth, the breadth and thickness of Springfields virtues and vices. Nine big volumes of "reports" were written, numerous press "stories" prepared for the papers, and a big Exhibition was put on in the State Armory.

At the present time Springfield knows how she appears to the outsider who comes looking for the inside of things, good and bad. And Springfield has reason to be proud for the Argus-eyed experts found much that was good and only an average assortment of what was bad.

The Exhibition presented a beautiful picture of ivory white pillars, buff panels or big placards, colored cartoons, scores of photographs, and several hundred silhouetted figures. Red "mercury" went up in a big thermometer as you saw "Willie wilt" in an overheated school room. The "High School Press" ran a full-fledged print shop. A flashing baby face recorded the untimely death of one in ten infants. A map flashing green and red lights separated the registered births from the unregistered. A cartoon pictured the up-to-the-minute stork with one foot on a regulation counting machine, counting Father Springfield's newest babies. An enormous revolving drum carried the jail record of the "ins" and "outs" of one man who was boarded free by the city for over two hundred days in one year. A picture of the shocking "bull-pen" for herding prisoners disappeared at intervals to make way for a clever scenic view of a prison farm. A spread of miniature coal miners steadily followed the ups and downs of a rugged hill representing the miners' irregular working periods.

Oliver Plows

It is a fact that every word we say about the No. 11 Oliver Sulky Plow is true, and if you have ever owned one you know we can't speak too well for this OLIVER SULKY. It is the best plow for any soil, at any time and under any conditions, that is manufactured today. Its construction is simplicity in every detail; hence it is light in weight. It is built to hug the ground; it is the only plow which successfully backs furrows, turns square corners, right or left without raising the base, and is acknowledged to be the lightest in draft and turns the soil in better condition than any other sulky plow. And I hereby challenge any manufacturer or dealer for a fair field trial that the No. 11 OLIVER SULKY is lighter in draft, will turn the soil in better condition, turn all trash under better and leave your ground in better condition than any other Sulky Plow manufactured.

We have a good stock of Oliver Sulky and Walking Plows and Repairs on hands, and invite you to call and see me, and get prices before you buy.

To be the First to Wear the New Fashions Confers a Social Distinction

IN every community there are women of taste and refinement who are leaders of style, upon whom other women rely for the fixing of fashions. In catering to the requirements of these women who enjoy possessing the new garments at the earliest moment possible, we have planned this advance spring showing of smartly tailored

Coat No. 1311

Wooltex Coats and Suits

presenting a wonderfully attractive collection of distinctly new garments; correct in style, refined in character, beautifully made of the most fashionable materials of the new season.

Now is the Best Time to Wear and Enjoy Them

The jackets of the new suits vary in length, some being even all around, some short in front, longer at the sides and still longer in the back. Some are form-fitting, some have straight lines to the waist with the graceful rippling flare below. The military motif is one of the influences of the new season.

Many of the coats are braided and trimmed with buttons in distinctly original effects. In every coat and suit the collar plays a most important part, supplying one of the main features of the style of the garment. The rolling military effect is most widely seen. Practically all of the coats have detachable over-collars of pique or silk.

The picture shows one of the charming new Wooltex coats. While the back is plain, the front shows a partial yoke effect. The rolling collar may be worn opened or closed. On some coats in this style, collar is piped with striped cloth. The godet under the arm, below the waist-line, produces a wonderfully smart wing-like flare which seems to spring out on each side of the coat. The coat is 40 inches long and is full-lined with peau de cygne. Price $18.50.

It is a particularly handsome model for large women. There are many other equally attractive models at the same popular price, $18.50.

Other Wooltex coats at $16.50 and $20.

Wooltex suits at $25, $30 and $35.

If you have not yet seen the new collection, we cordially invite you to come and view the garments at your earliest convenience.

Letter From Germany

J. Feudner Receives a Letter From His Sister Which Tells of Conditions in Germany—Other Information Not Found in the Anglo-Tinged War News.

Last November I sent a letter to my sister in Germany requesting her to write me concerning conditions in Germany since the war broke out. My native home is about a hundred miles from the battle front in France or a little further than from Rushville to Cincinnati. But of course, the military operations and the operations of the commissary and hospital departments and supply trains, extend for quite a distance back of the firing line, so that probably the entire distance from my home to the trenches in France are more or less in the zone of war operations.

Below is a translation of a letter I have received from my sister. It was mailed February 8th and arrived at Rushville on the 25th, and was then forwarded to me here in Denver. The letter was not sealed. This I understand is the new regulation during the war, and letters going to Germany should likewise be left unsealed. Over which route the letter came I am unable to say—certainly not by way of England. My sister writes as follows:

"You are probably informed concerning this frightful world-war How Germany—which DID NOT WANT the war—is surrounded by so many enemies. But our valiant soldiers have so far kept the enemy from our soil, and we fervently hope that finally the victory will be ours, because a just cause certainly will not succumb.

"It is most lamentable that so many young people must sacrifice their lives and so many cripples are coming back. Everybody wishes and hopes that this horrible war will soon come to an end.

"Germany still has many reserve soldiers and new regiments are constantly forming and are sent to the front. New recruits are continually being drawn and drilled. All the military barracks are crowded and the balance of the soldiers are quartered with the people in the various counties. We ourselves had to feed and take care of eight men for four months. The soldiers have now been transferred to other counties.

"A 'juvenile defense' has been organized all over Germany of the young men between 16 and 20 years. These are being exercised and drilled in the military tactics. In all cities, towns and villages the women have formed societies to work for the army.

"Now when field work begins in the spring the children will have to help more than ever, because farm labor is scarce—the best of it being at the front.

"What a terror it caused when it was announced that war had been declared, and in the midst of the harvest our young people had to drop everything and join the colors. The horses were also requisitioned and the men had to go, and then when the Germans were favored with victory upon victory, it was thought the horrible war would soon come to an end. But so many new enemies entered against Germany and the end is not yet. We trust that God, who has so far stood by us, will help further.

"It is said that England is determined to starve out the Germans, but we hope it will not come to this, because we have plenty of supplies to last until the next harvest, notwithstanding that Germany has to feed so many prisoners of war."

England will find the job of starving the Germans, a most difficult one. First, on account of the magnificent organization of the German imperial government reaching all phases of public and domestic life, and which causes measures for the conservation of food stuffs to be carried out conscientiously and to the letter. Already orders have been issued as to the acreage of food stuffs and fodder to be planted this spring. And secondly, because Germany still has traffic connections with Holland, Denmark and Switzerland. And then they can draw supplies from Norway, Sweden, Roumania, Bulgaria and Italy. It does not look—in spite of French temptation and liberal use of money among the Italian mobs by the French Ambassador—as if Italy would swerve from virtue. She is growing enormous quantities of vegetables, fruit, rice, etc., and must export to maintain her balance of payment. While Germany is being hampered on all sides and is practically cut off from the sea, a great many former consumers of Italian goods are also cut off, and there will be a surplus to be shipped to Germany, because it can not go anywhere else.

Then there is another factor that is very potent in an emergency of the present kind. No blockade, no closing of frontiers, no arrangements between authorities, will ever prevent the trickling through of considerable materials to the best payer.

Before the Germans permit themselves to be starved, the immense alien population, including a half a million of prisoners of war, will certainly be the first to suffer.

By the way—late dispatches announce that London is likely to face a famine. The interruption of ocean and sea traffic, caused by the German submarine blockade affects England the same as if suddenly all railroad traffic entering a large city, like Indianapolis, is stopped. Everybody knows what effect the stoppage of railroad traffic has on cities. The latest announcement that England will blockade the German coast can have no material additional effect, as a blockade has practically existed for some time, and on account of which the Germans started the "submarine blockade," a warfare which is a new departure and a wonder and a surprise to the nations of the world.

Another important feature of this war must be given due consideration. And that is that Germany occupies practically all of Belgium and about one-sixth of France, and a large part of Poland. Belgium is known to be a great agricultural and manufacturing country. The Germans have started many of the Belgian factories, especially those which can be used in the manufacture of military clothing and other war materials. The war has paralyzed French industry almost completely. The northern part of France occupied by the Germans is the best agricultural and fruit region, including the famous champagne district. Besides in this occupied territory are some of France's most important manufacturing industries and famous iron, salt and other mineral mines, without which France cannot manufacture iron. The Germans are operating the valuable iron and other mines by stock companies of German manufacturers.

The part of Poland occupied by the Germans is the principal industrial and manufacturing district of Russia, particularly the city of Lodz. Outside this district, there is little manufacturing in Russia, except such industries which are related to agriculture.

It seems that the strategy of the Germans was not aimed so much at capturing capitals, as to strike a severe blow at industrial centers of the enemy, and in this they certainly have succeeded. Besides this, all the military operations are carried on in the enemy's country, and thus Germany is practically carrying on the enemy's expense and inconvenience.

Denver has a considerable German and Austrian population. Many of these are grouped daily in front of the newspaper bulletin boards. Sometimes I mingle among them and listen to the conversation and arguments. I find that they are considerably incensed on account of the one-sided, or at least indifferent, attitude of neutrality of the United States government in the present war. England can seize American vessels with impunity and confiscate their cargoes without any firm protest. But when Germany adopts a war measure—the only kind open to her—this administration flares up in great indignation and makes strong protests.

The greatest piece of hypocrisy ever perpetrated by any government was President Wilson's official appointment of a day of prayer for peace, while war material is being shipped in immense quantities by this country to sustain and prolong the war. It is like if two boys were fighting. A man steps up and admonishes them that it is wrong to fight, they must not do it, etc., etc., and meanwhile he secretly slips a club to one of the combatants. Would anybody think the action of this "peacemaker" was right? This is exactly the position of the United States today in this great world-war. The Germans say they do not ask any favors, but they do want "fair play." The Germans in this country do not say much to outsiders, but among themselves they use strong language censuring the administration, and particularly Bryan, who, having an English son-in-law, is quite pro-English.

Mistaken Diagnosis — Doctors Guess Wrong Again.

About five years ago I wrote to you that I had been a terrible sufferer from kidney and bladder troubles, and that my physician informed me that my left kidney was in such condition that there was no hope for my recovery. I was advised to try your Swamp-Root as a last resort, and after taking four fifty-cent size bottles, I passed a gravel stone which weighed ten grains. I afterwards forwarded you this gravel stone. Have had no return of any trouble since that time and cannot say too much in favor of your wonderful preparation, Swamp-Root, which cures, after physicians fail. Very truly yours

FINED $125 AND
IS SENT TO JAILA. E. Kinsley, Custodian of Eagles Lodge, is Found Guilty by Jury in Mayor's Court.

APPEALS TO CIRCUIT COURT

Treasurer of Lodge Testifies Regarding "Social Fund" and How it is Supplied.

One hundred and eighty days in jail and a fine of $125 was what a jury in Mayor Behout's court last night gave A. E. Kinsley, custodian of Eagles lodge, who was charged with unlawful possession of liquor for the purpose of sale, after conferring over the evidence for two hours.

The jury did not get the case until eleven o'clock and it was one before it was announced a verdict had been reached. The defense today appealed the case to the circuit court and it will be fought out again. The appeal bond was $250.

Gus Meyer, who said he gave to the Eagles the beer which was taken by the police the afternoon of February 16, and who declared he sold electric pianos, but admitted he was formerly an agent for the Indianapolis Brewing company, was the only witness which the defense placed on the stand.

The three members of the Rushville police force and James J. Geraghty, treasurer of the Eagles, were the witnesses called by the state. Mr. Geraghty testified that the lodge had a "social fund" which was derived from "beer, cigars and tobacco." Meyer admitted on cross-examination that the Eagles had had beer on other occasions when he had been there and proved by Policeman Wm. Hardin that they had a fresh keg on tap the night of February 16 after the police had taken one keg to the jail the afternoon of the same day.

On the cross-examination of Meyer, the state brought out the fact that Meyer has a bank account at the Peoples National bank, and he said that "when it got up to $50 or $75," he drew it out; also the fact that he had been employed as an agent for the Indianapolis Brewing company for three years and a half.

The case was prolonged by the argument of the attorneys. After the evidence had been submitted and John A. Tittsworth, who assisted the state, was making the closing plea before the jury, John H. Kiplinger, of the law firm of Kiplinger & Smith, which represented the defense, interrupted Mr. Tittsworth when he called the attention of the jury to the fact that the defendant had not been placed on the stand to testify in his own behalf.

Mr. Kiplinger stopped Mr. Tittsworth immediately and moved that the case be taken from the jury and the jury discharged because counsel for the state had mentioned that Kinsley had not testified. The trial was further delayed when Mr. Kiplinger went to his office to get law books to prove his contention.

Mr. Kiplinger held that had it been in the circuit court and the state had made reference to the thing Mr. Tittsworth did, the judge could have instructed the jury to disregard the reference of the state to the defendant, but that since the court in this instance did not have authority to instruct the jury, there was nothing to do but discharge the jury.

Mr. Tittsworth contended that he did not comment on the fact that the defendant had not testified in his own behalf but simply made the plain statement that the defendant

The petition states that Forest, age 12 was given to the custody of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wolverton and that the little girl Ethara, age 7 was given to her mother.

Mr. Wolverton states in asking that the decree be modified, that Ethara is in the care of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Jarvis and that the order of the court is not being obeyed. He alleges that the Jarvis family have refused to let the children visit one another and that the girl's mother spends most of her time in Indianapolis and is not giving the child the proper attention.

CHARGED WITH STEALING COW

The troubles of John Gray, of Irvington, and Otis Johnson, formerly a tenant on the Gray farm east of the city are on the increase. Following his acquittal in police court this morning on the charge of stealing three hogs, Johnson was rearrested and arraigned in the circuit court on a grand larceny charge, it being alleged that he stole a cow.

The affidavit in the circuit court was also filed by John Gray. Mayor Behout failed to find enough evidence to convict Johnson on the charge of stealing the three hogs. The hogs were a partnership affair and it was hard to see how Gray could tell one hog from another, according to the court. Johnson was released on $500 in the circuit court with Carlton Chaney as security.

The first meeting of the Sixth District Educational Association will be held in this city March 19 and 20. The first session will be held at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening March 19 and the meeting will continue Saturday forenoon. Teachers and others interested throughout the district are expected to attend and an interesting program will be arranged.

The educational association was organized in response to a request of the State Teachers' association. At the last meeting of the state association in Indianapolis plans were advanced for the forming of district associations to study educational problems and the meetings will be of special benefits to teachers and superintendents.

Dr. W. W. Black, of Indiana University, has been secured by the committee in charge of the local meeting to make the principal address at the opening session of the district meeting. At this time the committee on permanent organization will make its report and the election of officers will take place.

The teachers in this district are making a special study of handwriting, according to the standard set by the Ayres scale. The handwriting of each pupil from the third grade to the eighth grade has been measured and the grade reported. These grades have been tabulated according to schools, cities and counties. At the meeting here the tabulated results will be displayed and the subject of handwriting in the schools will be discussed.

An age-grade census of all pupils has also been taken, showing the number of pupils above or below as the number that are normal in their age and school standing. This census will be tabulated and the result will make the topic for an interesting session. The high school teachers will hold a section meeting Saturday morning at which time the teacher-advisor system and vocational guidance will be discussed.

A representative of the state department of public instruction will be present on Saturday and discuss vocational education and school legislation.

TURMOIL MARKS
END OF CONGRESSMad Scramble to Avoid Extra Session as Sixty-Third Congress Stood Adjourned.

IT WAS A RECORD BREAKER

Bangs of Gavels in Both Houses
Sounded "Taps" For Several Members at Noon.

(By United Press.)

Washington, March 4.—In turmoil, unprecedented congestion and a mad scramble to avoid an extra session, the Sixty-third Congress—a record breaker in many respects—expired by limitation at noon today.

With an unusual record of legislation accomplished, bangs of gavels in the Senate and House sounded "taps" on the session launched a month ago after President Wilson's inauguration two years ago today.

The President went to his room at the Capitol early to sign the last few bills before the expiring Congress. Crush of belated business threatened invoking of the time-honored expedient of stopping the clock's hands shortly before noon to enable Congress to clean up.

The usual scenes of leave-taking, mixed with pathos and hilarity, were staged, but tempered by the pressing demands for consideration of real business, piled upon Congress during the last ten days because of the ship purchase bill filibuster. Fate of the ship bill was among the last settled.

Government money was appropriated today in the final rush at the rate of millions an hour. Conference reports on the appropriation bills, held up the last minute, were hurriedly exchanged between the two houses and as hastily approved. Bustle and excitement marked the closing hours of both houses. The full membership of both was present. The turmoil was more subdued in the Senate, but scenes of hilarious jollity marked the House proceedings. "Swan songs" were sung by retiring members. Resolution of felicity were given Speaker Clark and the party leaders. A costly oil painting of himself was the members gift to the retiring Democratic Leader, Rep. Underwood.

In time consumed the Congress which ended today smashed records. It had been in session 637 days. The special session called in April, 1913, leaped into the December session that year which continued until last October, adjoining only five weeks before the present session began last December.

The principal accomplishments of the Sixty-third congress were the following laws:

New tariff and income tax.
New currency system.
Creating a federal trade commission.
Amending the anti-trust act.
Repeal of the Panama canal "free tolls" provision.
Authorizing a government railroad in Alaska.
Empowering use of armed forces in forces in Mexico.
The war tax.
Creating a war risk insurance bureau.
Ratification of 21 peace treaties.
Another spectacular innovation inaugurated by President Wilson was his custom of delivering messages in person to Congress.
With the echo of the adjournment gavels today many big figures in public life retired. Nine Senators and nearly 150 Representatives left the Congress today. The Senators retired today were Senators Root, Bristow, Burton, Stephenson, Per-

SHERMAN TO SPEAK
AT EVANSVILLEIllinois Senator Deliver Principal Address at "Get Together" Banquet March 16.

PROGRESSIVES ARE IN LINE

(Special to the Daily Republican.)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 4.—United States Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois will deliver the principal address at a big Republican "get together" banquet that is to be held at Evansville on the night of March 16. On the committee on arrangements for this first district demonstration are U. H. Seiler, who was the Progressive nominee for Congress in the first district at the recent election Samuel E. Crumpacker, who was chairman of the First district Progressive committee in 1914 and J. R. Duncanson, an Evansville merchant who was active in the Progressive party from the time it was born until election day in 1914. All are now enthusiastic Republicans.

"The Republican party is again reunited in the First district," said Albert Funkhouser, of Evansville, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the coming banquet, while in Indianapolis the other day. "Not only are we in old time form but the enthusiasm is rampant. The Republicans in our part of the state are coming into their own at the very earliest moment possible. The swing is our way all along the line. The country has had enough of Democracy."

PRIMARY LAW IS NOW IN SIGHTSenator Van Auken Prepares to Introduce Substitute Measure
For Jones Bill.

SEVERAL NEW FEATURES

Senate Passes Bill Providing Nine
Men May Try Civil Case—
Barrett Amendment Killed.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 4.—The fight for the state-wide primary primary measure appeared to be won this afternoon. Senator Van Auken, the chief foe of the primary, went into the caucus of the Democrats with a bill which contains many features of the platform measure.

Those who oppose primary legislation on the subject would be the action of those who favor the original bill. Senator Ballou sent up a written motion that the Jones bill be taken out of committee but Lieutenant Governor O'Neil did not order the motion read. Senator Ballou stated that he would read the motion himself before the senate adjourned.

The Van Auken bill provides for township, county, city and legislative primaries and also provides for preferential ballots for president, vice-president, United States senator and other constitutional officers.

Representative Jones and his followers object to the Van Auken bill because it does not follow the platform of the Democrats. A second choice voting is also another feature of the Van Auken bill.

The house was expected this afternoon that the suffrage issue would burst upon it at any time. The bomb was expected to come in the form of a resolution asking that Representative Sare report on the bill.

The bill providing that nine men sit on a jury in civil suits, where it is agreed upon before starting the trial passed the senate by a vote of 32 to 3. The object of the bill is to expedite trials of civil cases in the courts.

The amendment to the Barrett law providing for full payment of interest before the ten year limit was lost in the senate for lack of a constitutional majority. The vote was 23 to 18. Senator Thornton led the opposition.

LUNCHEON TOMORROW

The local club women will hold a luncheon Friday from eleven o'clock until three at the Seaboard House at which time plans for the coming convention to be held in this city will be discussed. Committees will be appointed and other officers named to carry out the convention.

Confidence

One of the largest construction companies in the world is a constant newspaper advertiser.

Not one person in 50,000 who reads its advertising is a possible customer.

Yet it has made it pay big. It has made its name stand for confidence.

It has put itself in a position where everyone likely to embark in a building enterprise is going to give it consideration.

To reach the one man in 50,000 the company is after, is a task readily performed by newspaper advertising.

OTHER CROPS RIVAL COTTON

General Farming Instead of One Certain Crop is Being Urged All Over the South.

WAR STARTED REDUCTION

Texas Industrial Congress is Working For Better Methods by Offering Prizes.

Dallas, Texas, March 4.—"Let Texas Feed Itself" is the slogan of a diversified farming campaign that finds its counterpart today in every state in the South. General farming instead of all cotton is being urged by practically every newspaper, banker, storekeeper and agricultural expert in the Southland. Hundreds of lectures are in the field, armed with proof of the greater profit diversification. The mistake of selling a dollar's worth and importing three dollar's worth of foodstuffs is being brought home to cotton growers everywhere.

The failure to obtain good prices for the bumper 1914 cotton crop, as a result of the European war, started a cotton acreage reduction campaign. How deep the lesson of the war struck into cotton planters' hearts will not be accurately known until the census bureau at Washington estimates the acreage this coming season. But the first estimate of the winter wheat acreage will give some hint as to the cotton situation because tens of thousands of acres previously planted in cotton have been sowed in wheat. Field workers have reported hundreds of instances of old cotton patches planted for wheat.

The Texas Industrial Congress, an endowed organization working for better farming methods, diversification and dairying, has given general farming an impetus by distributing $10,000 in cash prizes to high record producers of wheat, corn, maize, peanuts and many other articles as well as cotton.

Diversification leagues are being formed in every Texas county. Bankers in several communities are advancing money on easy terms to start former cotton planters in the live stock industry.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

Grandma kept her locks dark, glossy and thick with a simple mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustrous appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

Military Training In High School Should Be Carefully Supervised

BY BURTON K. STANDISH.
(Written for United Press.)

Washington, Mar. 4.—High school military training, unless carefully supervised and directed, will work evil rather than good, in the opinion of Secretary of War Garrison.

So to prevent the widespread agitation of such training from becoming a detriment to the nation, he intends soon to inaugurate a movement whereby this may be correlated and properly directed.

He announced today that he will try soon to get together a group of representative citizens from various communities to confer with a body of military experts from his department.

In this proposed conference, a plan will be mapped out whereby military training may be used in the schools to the advantage of all concerned.

He decided on this measure only after careful study of the situation, and after hundreds of letters had suggested to him that the recent preparedness discussions had produced throughout the nation a movement for military training everywhere.

The secretary of the navy explained that, in many respects he believed the public schools of today attempted too wide a range. And to make military training effective, he held it must not be too ambitious a program, thrown in as a part of an undigested whole.

"When I went to school," he commented, "there were too many subjects. We had drawing a while, geography a while, and then trigonometry and calculus. Many of us didn't even know how to spell calculus, much less did we know what it was all about. For this reason, I have always felt that there should be more selection about school courses."

"And with respect to the matter of military training, I feel that we should not rush into it without careful consideration. We should not have the idea that schools can accomplish the purpose of turning school boys into trained soldiers. We must see to it that the training is properly supervised and properly apportioned."

He indicated that he is in hearty accord with the general principle involved but that he did not feel that it should be like many popular movements—"going up like a rocket and coming down like a stick."

"It is all very easy for the outsider to say, 'yes that's a great idea; let's have it.' But it is another thing to map it out, and make it efficient. For that reason I want to call in interested citizens to confer with army experts I shall plan to do this as soon as possible."

The Secretary's idea would be to make such training in schools an attractive part of the curriculum, instead of a burden or hard-ship which students would avoid as they sometimes do difficult studies.

As far as the war department is now concerned, it has no branch dealing directly with the general subject of school military training. The department is limited to actual training, and to direction of state militia work, but Secretary Garrison feels that without new appropriations at this time, his organization can be distinct benefit as a guide to communities, with military ideas.

Incidentally, it was suggested today that community military training would be in line with President Wilson's expressed theories against converting America into an army camp, but in favor of equipping men with a fundamental knowledge of military training in their leisure moments.

WAR NEWS FEATURE

Petrograd, Feb. 15. (By mail to New York)—Russian soldiers are quite as prone to nickname their generals as are the fighters of other countries. Most of the names find their origin in some physical or mental characteristic of the subject. For instance Grand Duke Nicholas the giant Commander-in-Chief, obviously could not escape the appellation "Big Nick."

Gen. Ivanoff, who commands in the south-west is called "Turcoman" because of his very black beard. For General Ruzski, now commanding the north-west group of armies there are several nicknames. The best known is "the scholarly private" but this, it appears was invented by an officer. Soldiers call him "Yellow fire." The general's motor-car lost a wheel and the fire on the new wheel is bright yellow.

The Austrian generals best known to the Russian soldiers are Generals Danki and General Von Hoetzendorf. Danki is called "the fox," and also "General Spasibo." "Spasibo" is Russian for "Thanks." The soldiers confuse his name with the German "Danke" the first word they hear from Austrian prisoners to whom they have shown attention. General Conrad is called "Vienna."

London, Feb. 10. (By mail to New York)—How the German gunners used up fifty "coal boxes" to kill a chicken is told by Ganner M. L. Gregory, of the 5th Siege Battery, Royal Garrison Artillery. "We were ordered to take up a position near to deal with a battery of German 11-inch guns," he says. "Rain came down in torrents but we got our guns into position, though it was no easy task as we were ankle-deep in mud. Before daylight we prepared for action, and at 6:45 the signal was given."

"The roar of our guns and the screaming of shells through the air made it almost impossible for us to know whether the shells were coming or going. Still we went on, not in the least concerned. About fifteen minutes later, while we were still sending our 'souvenirs,' three great 11-inch German shells came clean over our heads. There was a terrific explosion and on looking round I saw that the 'coal boxes' had burst clear of our battery. We continued firing and the Germans replied. In all they sent more than fifty 11 inch shells, and as far as I know they killed—a chicken. Although our guns are not as big as the 'coal-box purveyors' we did very well, and by eleven o'clock that morning our infantry were able to advance. We captured the enemy's first-line trenches and a good number of prisoners. The artillery work was greatly praised by our general. The British guns are probably the 6-inch siege guns of which Sir John French expressed his appreciation.

Let the Pigs Grunt

Let the pigs do the grunting.
There is better work ahead for us.
Grunting never lessened the burden of a load, never pulled a community out of a rut, never added a dollar to any man's bank account.

Grunting makes pessimists, and pessimists have bad livers, and poor digestions, and sour countenances, and are general nuisances all around.

And pessimists are always grunting about something.

They grunt if times are bad; they grunt because they are not better when they are good; they grunt over their meals, and over politics, and religion, and anything else that offers a chance to grunt.

And then they grunt because there is nothing left to grunt about.

Grunting is a habit with them—it is their daily pestime—and nothing is so dear to their hearts as a great, big, unadulterated grunt.

Many of us grant a part of the time, but some folks grant all of the time.

Now let's quit grunting.

Let's get down to hard tasks and dig a lot of wealth out of this community. It's here, but grunting won't do the digging.

Let's make this the greatest productive year in local history.

Let's get out and hustle—let's find the opportunities, or make them where none exist.

The soil is as rich today as it was a year ago, and it will produce as much and the products will sell for more money.

There is nothing produced in this community bath us a market waiting for it. If we don't see the market, let's get out and find it. Time is too short for it to hunt us.

Let's not sit on dry goods boxes and wait for the world to come to our feet. We will die grunting if we do.

There's a great big place for us in the world. Let's fill it—let's do something—let's let the rest of the world know that we are alive, that we are producers, that we are something more than grunters.

Let's be optimists—for optimists do things, and never grunt.

Let the pigs do the grunting.
There are better times and more congenial work ahead for us.

Let's all get busy and whoop it up.

China unwittingly perpetrated a monumental joke when she begged the United States to protect her from the encroachments of Japan. Uncle Sam would have difficulty in protecting his own national hide. Nations cannot fight without munitions of war.

Robert J. Thompson, former American consul at Aix la Chapelle, Germany, wants congress to appoint a commission to secure peace in Europe. And we want congress to keep its mouth shut and its nose at home.

Fashion has decreed that women must reduce in weight in order to wear the latest gowns. What a calamity for those who cannot reduce, and yet will not wear an out-of-date garment!

Here's a bully good idea! Let's have a law requiring every senator and congressman who votes for war enlist and go to the front. Then there'll be no war!

Why buy big guns for coast defenses? Once started, congress can roar loud enough for all belligerent purposes.

Disappointing! The flight of Haiti's president could only command an inch of space in the daily press.

In the event of hostilities we might borrow a few of those guns we obligingly shipped down to Mexico.

A hundred million mouths with which to protest, and nothing with which to fight! Huh!

Back up! Be a sport! Sinking American ships may become an old story in time.

Hello, Mex! How many presidents have abdicated today?

Don't shout for war until you are ready to go yourself.

It's easy to quit and just as easy to stay quit.

What the Solons Are Doing; Legislative Facts---By Expert

Prepared for the United Press by John A. Lapp, director of the Bureau of Legislative Information.

(Mr. Lapp will answer questions relating to the work of the Legislature, including legislative organization and methods, pending bills and enacted laws. Questions on the merits of men or measures will not be answered. To avoid delay address all questions direct to the United Press, 38½ West Washington St., Indianapolis. Questions may be sent to the Daily Republican if preferred.)

Interested woman writes: "What are some of the advantages of a short session such as Indiana has over unrestrained ones like in Illinois?"

Reply—Indiana's session is too short for the extensive and complicated work to be done, but the short session has the advantage of urging more rapid work and organization at the beginning. Illinois has for several years had a deadlock lasting several weeks. They proceed slowly and usually rush everything through the last few days. In 1907 the Illinois house passed 118 bills the last night of the session. No such a spectacle was ever witnessed in Indiana.

Economist writes: "Has anyone figured the cost per minute while the assembly is in session?"

Reply—Each day of the session costs something over $2,000. If the house and senate are in session for five hours each, the cost per hour would be $400, or $6.66 per minute, or $3.33 for each house per minute.

Voter writes: "How many states have adopted the state-wide primary and what proportion of these have later repealed it?"

Reply—Thirty-eight states have state-wide, direct primary laws. Two others have partial direct primary laws. No state has ever given up the system when once established except Montana, which in 1907 repealed a poor law enacted in 1905.

Stingy writes—"What is the average cost to the state per bill introduced?"

Reply—In the 1913 legislature there were 1,339 bills introduced. The cost of the session was approximately $160,000. Therefore the average cost would be about $120. This year the number of bills is smaller and the cost lower, but the average cost is about the same.

High School Boy writes: "Is it proper for the legislature to continue its work on the final night after midnight even if the clock is turned ahead?"

Reply—The constitution requires that no bill be presented to the governor within two days of final adjournment but it has been customary to pass bills late on the last night and often in the early hours of the following morning. It is entirely in the discretion of the governor whether such bills shall be received by him. No court decision has declared whether such bills are constitutional.

Maudie writes—"What is class legislation?"

Reply—Class legislation is a law which applies differently to different classes of citizens. Whereas the law should apply to all citizens alike.

Areonaut Relates How He Almost Dropped Some Bombs In Mexico

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD

(By U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

London, Feb. 10. (By mail to New York)—Lee Hedgson is over here wondering why, in the name of goodness, he didn't take a try at wiping out Oroso's rebel army in Mexico, single-handed when he had a chance.

He's an Englishman and he now belongs to the Royal Corps and will shortly go to the front. Here's the way he talks about his lost chance at the Mexican rebels:

"You remember when you used to see me round El Paso during the Oroso revolution against Madero in the spring of 1913? Well, I had big things under way then, though I couldn't tell any of the newspapermen about it at the time. I came to El Paso because Felix Sommerfeld, Madero's agent wanted me to fly over into Mexico and locate Oroso's forces and also to do what damage I could to them with air bombs. There was a fancy price attached to the stunt and I brought my machine secretly to El Paso and cached it under the grandstand at the ball park, waiting for a good time to start.

"But there were three sets of secret service men in El Paso three years ago; the Americans government agents, the Maderista agents and the rebel agents, and between them somehow my secret got out.

"If I had known what the flying men know now about what an aeroplane can do in warfare, I wouldn't have been worried in the least, but I felt that if Oroso's men knew that I might fly over them any day they would be ready for me and hanging would be my portion, if I came down alive. So I delayed my start, thinking things over.

"At last I got up my nerve and told Sommerfeld I would take a chance. How to get the machine together and get started on my flight was the next problem. Sommerfeld solved it. He put up the money and he arranged for an aero meeting at the baseball park. I was to be the only flyer and the idea was that, as soon as I got off the ground, I was to start across the Rio Grande and do my work.

"And right at this point, Col. E. Z. Steever, who had charge of the American troops, at El Paso stepped in. His secret service men had learned of my plan and he sent word to me that if I crossed the Rio Grande his soldiers would be ordered to bring me down with their rifles. I never did know whether Col. Steever had any right to take such a step, but the thought of American sharpshooters putting away at me was too much and so I gave up the plan.

"But the things that have been learned about aeroplanes fighting in this war in Europe show me that I could have left the United States without the slightest danger from American bullets and that I would have been perfectly safe, barring such accidents as might happen to any machine in peace times, over the Mexican rebels.

"Half a year of aeroplane fighting here in Europe, has proved beyond a doubt that an aeroplane, at a height of 4,000 feet is almost unhit-table. I could have spiraled up above that baseball grounds that day until I had reached 4,000 feet and then I could have sailed across the Rio Grande with perfect safety though it was only three years ago, an aeroplane would have scared a Mexican army to death and I can't imagine what influence my bombs would have had on Oroso's hordes.

"But I didn't know about the safety from bullets of the 4,000 feet elevation and so the job was called off.

"But is an aeroplane really safe at a height of 4,000 feet?"

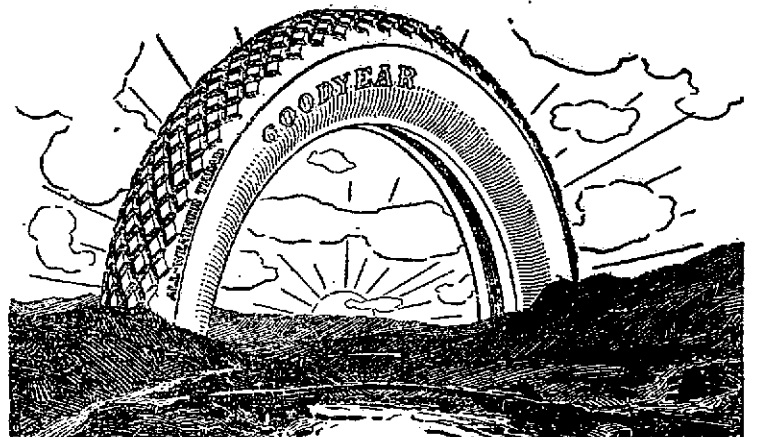

"Yes indeed. It works out like this: Any shot that hits either the pilot or the vital part of an aeroplane at that elevation is the wildest kind of a chance shot. It's like trying to hit a flying duck, with a rifle, right through its little heart. Did you ever hear of the fanciest rifle shot in the west trying to hit a certain feather on a flying bird or guaranteeing to pick a flying bird in a certain part of its anatomy. Shooting isn't done that nicely. And the vital part of an aeroplane, at a height of 4,000 feet, isn't as big as the point of a lead pencil. I've seen western men in America cut a visiting card placed edgewise with a rifle bullet, at 50 yards, but the card wasn't traveling at the rate of 60 miles an hour.

"The aeroplane has got all the best of it in warfare and I only wish I had known it, back in those days of Oroso's rampage."

Fortified Tires Now in the Light

The supreme test of a tire is to hold top place—the place in the sun—and for years. Goodyear tires have done that. Long they have led, both in sales and prestige.

Men expect much of the top-place tire. They look for a super-tire in it. Any seeming fault, due to mishap or misuse, becomes a defect in this glare.

But Goodyear Fortified Tires, after years in this light, hold higher place than ever. Last year men bought 1,479,883 Goodyears of the pleasure-car type alone. That's about one tire for every car in use.

Who Is Wrong?

Is it the Goodyear user, whose choice is confirmed by some 400,000 others?

Or is it the man who still assumes that another tire is better?

Isn't best average service, as proved by Goodyear supremacy, the right way to judge a tire?

Lower Prices

On February 1 Goodyear made the third big price reduction in two years. The three total 45%.

Yet the tires are constantly bettered. In five costly ways—each exclusive to Goodyear—our Fortified Tires excel any other tire built. And each is a great trouble-saver.

They mean for you tire content. They mean most for your money, because of our matchless output. For your own sake, try them. The following Goodyear Service Stations will supply you:

HOW RUSHVILLE MAN CURED HIS BACKACHE

Points the Way, in Letter to All Who Suffer as He Did

Mr. Harry Carel of 609 West Ninth street, Rushville, Ind., says: "My back nearly killed me." I suffered continually with sharp, shooting pains. I could not raise up and when I stooped you would think I was being killed—I would scream aloud. My kidneys were in a highly congested condition and bothered me a great deal at night. I thought I would never get relief as I tried most everything. Finally Lloyd's Kidney and Rheumatism Tablets came to my attention. I heard that Lloyd's was a new scientific prescription and a sure cure. After taking them only a short time, I found the pain had left me entirely and now after a few weeks I am glad to say that I am entirely relieved. I can not recommend Lloyd's too highly. Certainly cured me of a long standing case."

TEAM IS READY FOR RICHMOND

If Confidence Counts for Anything Then Rushville is as Good as Headed for Bloomington

LOCALS IN GOOD CONDITION

Expect to Get There in Time for Light Work Out on Coliseum Floor—Opens Tournament.

The Rushville basketball team is in fine shape for the district tournament games, which start Friday night in Richmond. The Rushville team will open the tourney on Friday night by playing the Mooreland team and according to the dope this game should be little more than a practice game for Rushville.

The team will leave here tomorrow morning and expects to take a light work out on the Coliseum floor in Richmond. The floor is big and the locals desire to get accustomed to it before they actually play a game. The team has practiced every night this week in perfecting team play and the team that beats Rushville will know it has been in a basketball game.

Coach Buras will use his regular lineup consisting of Titsworth and Stoops forwards; Martin, center and Brecheisen and Winslow guards. All are in good physical condition and the team has plenty of confidence. If confidence counts for anything then Rushville is already on the way to Bloomington for the state meet. The team expects to beat Mooreland as a starter, and then the next game is likely to be with Richmond. The Rushville team is just as confident of beating Richmond and the only team in the tournament that Rushville really fears is Newcastle and this is not very great.

Richmond and Newcastle papers can see only Newcastle and Richmond fighting it out in the final game but Rushville supporters believe their team will fight it out and it will be with either Newcastle or Brookville. The Brookville team is not to be made light of and this team should beat Hagerstown despite all predictions to the contrary. The following from the Newcastle Courier is a fair example of dope as handed out in Newcastle and Richmond:

According to the dope on the tournament, Rushville should win from Mooreland in the first game and in the second game would meet Richmond, which can easily defeat Cadiz. In this contest Richmond should be returned winner and then would be in the finals Saturday night. In the other branch of the series, Newcastle, having twice easily defeated Connersville during the season, should win again on a neutral floor. This would stack the local squad against the winner of the Hagerstown-Brookville game, which Richmond figures, will be Hagerstown, but may be Brookville.

The locals are confident of winning over Hagerstown, if that team wins and should be able to win handily from the lads from Brookville. This would bring them up to the final game in the evening, when with Richmond they would fight it out for the honors of the district. Of course, all this is merely dope and sometimes dope does not count for a great deal especially in basketball, but again dope often hits the mark just right and in case it does, the Newcastle five will return from Richmond Sunday morning the champions of the Richmond district.

The following is the list of Newcastle players who will go to Richmond to fight out matters in the tournament: H. Kampe and Thad Gordon, forwards; Capt. Victor Lawson, center; Bryon Williams, Glenn Christman, George Ross and W. Kampe, guards. Several shifts have been tried against the second team and all have worked successfully in perfecting the plans to give one of the forwards a rest if necessary, as well as to rest up one of the guards.

GRIFFITH IS OUT FOR FLAG

Washington Team, According to Dope, Will at Least Finish in First Division.

JOHNSON EXPECTS BIG YEAR

Now in Training at Charlottesville, Va.—Seven New Men Fight For Positions on Team.

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.) Washington, March 4.—It's the same old song—"wait 'till next year"—but the Fans along the Potomac are joining in stronger on the chorus than they used to.

Now that the dope specialists have assigned Griffith's American League Climbers to a place among the first four likely candidates for bunting honors next fall, the Old Fox's tribe is flocking in from the provinces for the spring training camp at Charlottesville, Va.

Charlottesville is some three hours ride from Washington and the Senators on February 28, left for Dixie. Just why Charlottesville should be selected for this honor has never been learned. In previous years, the Nationals have done most of their training in the Fayerweather gymnasium of the University of Virginia and it has suggested that Griffith train his squad in the local Y. M. C. A. and save cartage.

The first squad, which departed on February 28, was mostly rookies, with Mick Altrock, Coach Ryan and Trainer Martin along to chaperon the boys and tuck them into bed at 10 sharp each night. On March 7, Clark Griffith and his regular squad will make their appearance in the Old Dominion and the spring work will be on.

The first squad to leave included 12 of the likely youngsters on President Minor's payroll, including a couple of newcomers in the shape of two promising young pitchers, Thormuhlin and Hopper. The other members of the first squad were Engel, Gallia, Shaw, Ayres, Boehling, Ainsmith and Williams, catchers; and the two coaches.

On March 7, Griffith will head a delegation, consisting of Walter Johnson, "Chick" Gandil, Morgan, McBride, Foster, Milan, Moeller, Shanks, Rondeau, Massey, Brown, Reinhard, the last four being newcomers; Pick, Neff and the little Cuban, Acosta.

This gives seven new men to contend with the regulars for positions in the mid-season lineup. Walter Johnson is the only pitcher who did not go south with the first squad. Johnson is a wizard at conditioning himself and always rounds into form under his own treatment better than by taking the camp routine.

Johnson is expecting another big year and the alleged prejudice against him, caused by Walter's rather careless league-jumping tactics, is expected to vanish the first time he moves down three in the ninth.

Howard Shanks' position in the outfield is said to be in danger, because of weak hitting and unless he improves, there is a strong possibility that he will occupy the bench for a spell. Second base is also causing Griffith considerable worry. Morgan has been notified that he must report in condition, as Neff and Pick, the two youngsters, have showed lots of class and are simply itching for the job as a regular diversion.

All Washington realizes that Clark Griffith is out after the flag this year as he never was before. Things looked pretty black last winter when it seemed that the Feds had acquired Griffith's big finger, Walter Johnson, but despite the murmurs of unpopularity, it was a very joyful local fadism that saw Johnson back safe in the fold and facing a brilliant season.

Griffith has, in addition to the shape of Bentley, Boehling and Harper, Boehling, of course, jumped into the limelight with his 11 straight victories back in 1912 and while he has not equalled that record in the

two intervening seasons, he is expected to outdo himself the coming year, when every one of the Nationals will be up on his toes, fighting for a little rag of bunting and the very substantial pecuniary and professional reward that goes with it.

Rushville People Praise Simple Mixture

Many in Rushville praise the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-ika. This remedy is the most THOROUGH bowel cleanser ever sold being even used successfully in appendicitis. ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gassy stomach. ONE MINUTE after you take it the gasses rumble and pass out. Adler-ika cannot gripe and the INSTANT action is surprising. F. E. Wolcott, druggist. (Advertisement.)

TRADE BALANCE
IN OUR FAVOR

Wall Street, However, Has Quite a Time in Figuring Out Difference in Money Values

VALUE OF POUND SLUMPS

Exports Exceed Imports But Difficulty is in Change of Foreign Money Values

BY CARLTON TEN EYCK
(Written for United Press.)
New York, March 3.—

Four farthings are one pence.
Twelve pence are one shilling.
Twenty shillings make a pound."

The arithmetics taught that, but all Wall Street is wondering every morning now just how much a pound is worth in dollars and cents, and exporters who figure their margins closely chuckle or curse, depending on how their contracts with European firms are drawn.

The cause of it is too much business and the sudden swing of America from the red to the blue side of the ledger. Once we were in everybody's debt; now it is the other way, for exports are exceeding imports, and the balance of trade is in our favor.

A few days ago there was a flurry in the foreign exchange market. The story was on the financial pages, and those who do not depend on the markets for sustenance, or amusement probably passed it by, but it meant much to Wall Street and more to American exporters.

The busiest men in New York on the days the market broke were the heads of the foreign departments of the big banks.

"I have been working every night until 11 o'clock since the first break," said Max May, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company, who is in charge of that bank's foreign department. Cable boys raced in and out of his office and clerks hurried foreign drafts galore on his desk as he explained what "demand sterling 4.791 87" meant.

"It is simply a case of supply and demand," he said. "The balance of trade is all on our side now. We are exporting to Europe and importing only a little. There is more foreign exchange than demand for foreign exchange, and the European nations are holding on to their gold. We must take their paper."

To put it more plainly, a pound check, once worth $4.86 in American money, was worth, on the day the market slumped, only $4.79.

"No one can tell how long the condition will last," said May. "American exporters stand to lose large sums of money, if they agreed to accept pounds for their goods."

Other men in Wall Street declared, however, that the "dollar exchange," instead of "sterling," is becoming more generally in use, and that many big concerns insisted on the former when they began to realize that big business might mean too much business unless payments were made in gold.

Exporters who billed their shipments as payable in dollars will reap big profits if they are able to hold their British and other foreign paper until the market rises again. The receiver of American goods must pay the premium of exchange, in this case, which means an additional profit of about one per cent. to the exporters.

But the business interests of Great Britain, buyers of American goods in huge quantities, are gradually letting loose of their gold. They find themselves in the position of the man who is overdrawn at his bank and has to pay a premium to get money. Consequently, there were a few big gold shipments to America when the first slump came in the exchange market, and British gold was deposited in American banks to meet the bills of exchange.

And a sovereign that clinks and shines like an American five dollar gold piece, is worth as much as it ever was before.
Some of the bankers, including

May, believed that Germany's submarine blockade it is proved a lasting barrier to trade, would bring the rate of exchange back to normal again. They figured that American business men then would be glad to get British paper, or any kind of paper for their products, and needing the business, wouldn't worry whether a pound was worth four dollars and eighty six cents or four, seventy-five.

Pure Bred.

Of the fifty-five stallions in Rush county that are enrolled with the state board of enrollment at Purdue university at Lafayette, twenty-two are pure bred and only five out of the fifty-five are unsound, according to circular No. 4 issued by the board and containing the report of the stallion enrollment work up to October 31, 1914. The animals have been enrolled under the following headings: three pure-bred Belgian (one unsound); one pure-bred Clydesdale; 9 pure-bred Percheron (one unsound); one pure-bred Shire; eight pure-bred grade Percheron; 1 grade Shire; seven grade Standard bred; fourteen scrubs (three unsound.)

The county is not up to several in the total number but in the percentage of pure bred stock, Rush is among the leaders. Madison county with Anderson as the county seat, has 122 animals enrolled, but only 57 are pure bred; while Montgomery county, Crawfordsville the county seat, has only 39 pure bred out of 122 of all kinds. Putnam county in which Greensburg is located, has 143 animals, the highest number for any county in the state, but only 33 of them are pure bred. Delaware county, with Muncie has 59 horses out of which 28 are pure-bred. Henry county, the home of the good horse and the true lover of horse flesh, has 50 pure bred animals out of a total of 96, a total percentage of 52.

had not testified and intended to proceed with a statement about other parts of the evidence when he was stopped.

Mr. Tittsworth was willing to admit that the court might admonish the jury not to consider his statement regarding the defendant.

The court ruled that the state's representative be allowed to proceed with his argument. Mr. Tittsworth called attention to the fact that the only witness the defense had was a man who admitted that he had been a brewery agent and who still carried his sign with him. He mentioned that the treasurer of the lodge, an honest, straightforward man, had testified that the lodge had a "social fund" and told how it was supplied. Mr. Tittsworth also asked the jury to consider the fact that no officer of the lodge, no member of the social committee nor any member of the lodge had been placed on the stand to explain away these things which had been brought up in cross-examination of the defense's only witness and the direct examination of the state's witness.

The defense's chief argument before the jury was laying stress on the fact that the defense was clothed with innocence by the law and that the jury could not find him guilty unless they were convinced of the fact beyond any reasonable doubt. Mr. Kiplinger asked the jurors to remember that they had taken an oath to try the defendant fairly and impartially. He cited a case where a court had ruled that a man who had given a friend a drink of liquor in his home was not guilty.

Mr. Kiplinger held that the decision of a case in the state supreme court, written by Judge Douglas Morris of this city, was not similar to this one because in that instance it had been shown that the Larks lodge at Portland, Ind., kept beer in a cooler, had a regular bar and that beer was sold for coupons.

Mr. Tittsworth, in his argument, replying to the defense's argument that the defendant should be clothed with the presumption that he was innocent until he was proved guilty beyond any reasonable doubt, said that the jury, as well as owing this consideration to the defendant, should consider the rights of the citizens of Rushville. He said the community had a right to be protected by law. He declared that the man who did not belong to the Eagles lodge might rightfully say that it was not fair to vote the saloons away from him and still allow a lodge to keep beer unlawfully for sale.

The state brought out in the testimony of Chief of Police Rosenkrance, Policeman Hardin and Yakey that there was an improvised bar from "six to eight feet" long in a back room at the Eagles lodge and that on a shelf underneath the bar were beer glasses variously estimated by the witnesses to number from eighteen to two dozen. The witnesses also testified there was a damp bar cloth and that there were a half dozen salt and pepper containers under the bar.

To offset this testimony, the defense tried to show the jury that there was a kitchen immediately behind the "bar," which connected up with it by a door and that the so-called bar was used to set out plate lunches.

The state's witnesses testified that there were a half dozen men in the room when they arrived and that they all helped themselves freely of the beer, which was pumped from the keg. They testified they did not see a sale and that all seemed "to help themselves," with one exception, when Kinsley drew a glass for another man. Policeman Yakey said Kinsley "seemed to be in charge."

The state also brought in evidence that the police saw empty beer kegs variously estimated from eleven to sixteen in number. In the opening argument the state showed that, under the affidavit, it did not have to show a specific sale, but only the unlawful possession of liquor for sale.

The defense objected when the state asked the chief of police if the Eagles had a government license. The treasurer of the lodge later denied that the Eagles had taken out a government license to sell liquor.

On direct examination the defense's only witness testified he had treated the Eagles with a keg of beer which the police took February 16 because they bought an electric piano. He first said he sold the piano about February 12, but when "pinned down" in cross-examination said it was sold January 12. He said the last note was due on it February 12 and that he had come down here to collect it February 16. By questioning him, the state developed that he did not get the money but that it was applied to his account at the bank. Then it was brought that he kept an account here although he lived in Indianapolis and had sold only one other piano in Rushville.

Meyer testified that he quit the Indianapolis Brewing company April 7, 1913, and denied he was still in the company's employ. He admitted he had sent a keg of beer here once before and that he frequently "dropped in on" the lodge here. He testified that on a number of occasions they had had beer to drink and that once there were so many present beer had to be served upstairs also. Plate lunches had been served some times, he said. He was asked who paid for it and replied it was free. In reply to the question who paid for the lunch, he said he supposed it came from the "social fund" derived from the sale of beer, liquor and cigars, as was done in the Indianapolis lodge. Meyer was asked if he did not tell the chief of police if he was called to testify he would have to say there was a bar because it was where his goods went over, but he denied it.

This developed the "social fund" feature of the case and caused the state to call the lodge treasurer who testified in regard to it.

Members of the jury were: Jesse Kirkpatrick, Wash Allen, Joe Cowing, B. L. Trabue, Carl Webb, Dr. C. H. Parsons, R. P. Havens, George W. Thomas, Alfred Looney, Henry Freese, A. C. Brown and Robert Kennedy.

YES, INDEED, HE SHOULD HAVE BEEN VERY PROUD.

"Me for 'GETS-IT' When I Have Corns"

Simple As Saying It; Never Fails.

It does your heart good to see how easily and quickly any corn comes out when you put "GETS-IT" on! And then when you're gone along for years trying everything, when you've sat up nights wrapping up your toes in bandages, smearing on salves that rub off or swell up the corn, pasting on cotton plasters that make corns pop-eyed, slaughtering your toes with razors, jabbing them with knives and prying to the quick with scissors—and then you put on 2 drops of "GETS-IT" and see your corn fall right off—why, it just looks like a miracle. Just try it. "GETS-IT" never fails. No pain, no trouble. Use it for any corn, callus, wart, bunion, or ingrowing nail.

"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Sold in Rushville and recommended as the world's best corn cure by Thos. W. Lytle, Hargrove & Mullin and F. E. Wolcott.

DANGER FROM SPRING FIRES

Forest Service Warns People of Rocky Mountains Region—Two Occurred in January.

Snow Fall Below Normal and Much Dry Weather Given as Cause—Increase in Oats Crop.

(By United Press.)

Washington, March 4—The possibility of a dangerous spring and summer fire season in the national forests in the west is presaged by reports that two forest fires occurred in January and that the snowfall in much of the Rocky Mountain region and in the foothills has been much below normal, the Forest Service announces.

January fires are almost unheard of in the national forests and the snow reports are regarded as especially significant, as they indicate that unless the deficiency is made up the forests will be dry earlier in the spring than usual, with consequent increases of the fire menace.

The fires reported occurred in the Pike forest, in Colorado, and in the Black hill forest, in South Dakota. The latter is believed to have been of incendiary origin, according to the district forester at Denver. The total area burned over comprised about 75 acres.

The district forester at Ogden, Utah, in charge of the national forests in Nevada, Utah, and southern Idaho, reported that the snow fall in this region also is below normal.

Further investigation shows that the manufacturers frequently have employed a sufficient quantity of pepsin, diastase, pancreatin, trypsin, or similar material but in many cases no attempt has been made to determine whether the material used is really active. In certain cases manufacturers have combined pepsin and trypsin, which tend to negative each other.

"The great trouble with many of these preparations," says the department, "is that they don't keep well, and while active at first after a time lose their digestive activity. The department, therefore, warns manufacturers that preparations claiming to contain digestive enzymes should be up in such a way that they will have suffered little, if any, loss of activity when sold."

A significant indication of the spread of southern interest in diversified farming is contained in the estimate of the Bureau of Crop Estimates that more than double the quantity of oats—102 per cent, to be exact—was sown in the cotton states last fall than in 1913.

The fall sowings in 1913 amounted to approximately 1,872,000 acres; in 1914 to 3,775,000 acres, an increase of 1,903,000 acres. If the same acreage is sown to spring oats this year as last, the 1915 crop in the cotton states will be more than 6,257,000 acres. Recent reports, moreover, indicate an intention to increase the spring sowings as well.

The increase in the fall sowing of wheat, though not so great as with oats, is still very considerable. It amounts to 1,812,000 acres, or an increase of 33 per cent. The total increase in the acreage sown to fall wheat and oats is 3,700,000, or more than 10 percent, of the land planted in cotton in the spring of 1914. Even if the spring seedings of oats and wheat show no departure from the practice of former years, this decrease of 10 per cent in the cotton acreage will be appreciable, says the Department of Agriculture.

The Department of Agriculture has been carrying on experiments to determine the adaptability of the vinifera of California from which raisins and wine are made to various other climates and soils in the United States. The re-establishment of the culture of the native American grape in New Jersey has also been investigated.

In co-operation with the Bureau of Chemistry, the best methods of preparing fruit juices from apple, pineapples, and other fruits have been determined. The ripening of bananas has also been the subject of study.

Improvement of citrus fruits, especially oranges, lemons, and pomegranates, through but selections and breeding is now being carried on in California and the production of improved strains and types resulting from this work will afford growers a basis for new stock on new plantation or for replacing undesirable plantations.

As a result of the study by the Department, great impetus is expected to be added to the planting of pecan trees.

SOME CRIMINALS SEE THEMSELVES IN MOVIES.

(By Bean Itallo.)

(Written for United Press.)

New York, Feb. 27.—A thousand murderers, hold-up men, forgers, bank robbers, petty thieves, and men who had been sent up the river for every crime under the sun, saw themselves in the movies the other day, and fraternized with the actors who had lived among them for three days while "Alias Jimmy Valentine" was being filmed at Sing Sing.

The producing company took a special train to the prison to present the film for the first time before the convicts, Robert Warwick the star of the film, saw himself in convict's garb on the screen.

One never would have known that the audience was made up of convicts if the windows had not been barred, for there was not a guard in the room, and, under Warden Osborne's regime at Sing Sing, there are no cropped heads or stripes. It is all honor system.

The convicts are the most appreciative film and "legit" audience in the east.

A stroll along the Railto shows that spring is coming. There is always at least one Viennese operetta every spring. "The Peasant Girl" is one of that kind and it opens Monday night at the Forty-Fourth street theatre.

Easter Monday, De Wolf Hopper and Gilbert and Sullivan Opera company will revive a number of the G and S. compositions of the Shubert Playhouses, as a spring tonic.

The Neighborhood Settlement, at 466 Grand Street, has a theatre all of its own, and is proving that the poor have dramatic talent. Playlets and popular entertainments are being given with only nominal admission charges, and those who receive the benefits of the settlement are appearing in the casts.

"Several years ago I called on Lane & Evans to buy a pump and they almost forced me to buy one of your Fig. 28 Red Jacket Double-Acting Force Pumps and fifty feet of hose when I only intended to buy a cheap set length pump. Mr. Lane put up such strong argument on 'fire protection' that I followed his advice and bought the Fig. 28, little thinking that it would be of any service to me in that respect.

Shortly after the pump was installed, my barn caught fire and had it not been for this pump and hose and the thoughtfulness of Mrs. Barnett, my barn, house and all buildings on the place would have been destroyed."

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts: take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

SOCIAL SURVEY IS COMPLETED

Illinois Capitol Awaits Report of Investigators Sent Out from New York—Many Big Volumes

EXHIBITION WAS SIGNED

Expect That They Found Much Good in City and Only Average Assortment of the Bad

(By United Press.)

Springfield, Ill., March 4.—Within a few days the city will receive the final reports on the already famous "social survey." Twenty-one investigators came down upon the city during last spring, looked the place over counted and measured, filled many note books, made numerous maps and diagrams, and went back to New York to determine the height and depth, the breadth and thickness of Springfield's virtues and vices. Nine big volumes of "reports" were written, numerous press "stories" prepared for the papers, and a big Exhibition was put on in the State Armory.

At the present time Springfield knows how she appears to the outsider who comes looking for the inside of things, good and bad. And Springfield has reason to be proud for the Argus-eyed experts found much that was good and only an average assortment of what was bad.

The Exhibition presented a beautiful picture of ivory white pillars, buff panels or big placards, colored cartoons, scores of photographs, and several hundred silhouetted figures. Red "mercury" went up in a big thermometer as you saw "Willie wilt" in an overheated school room. The "High School Press" ran a full-fledged print shop. A flashing baby face recorded the untimely death of one in ten infants. A map flashing green and red lights separated the registered births from the unregistered. A cartoon pictured the up-to-the-minute stork with one foot on a regulation counting machine, counting Father Springfield's newest babies. An enormous revolving drum carried the jail record of the "ins" and "outs" of one man who

It is a fact that every word we say about the No. 11 Oliver Sulky Plow is true, and if you have ever owned one you know we can't speak too well for this OLIVER SULKY. It is the best plow for any soil, at any time and under any conditions, that is manufactured today. Its construction is simplicity in every detail; hence it is light in weight. It is built to hug the ground; it is the only plow which successfully backs furrows, turns square corners, right or left without raising the base, and is acknowledged to be the lightest in draft and turns the soil in better condition than any other sulky plow. And I hereby challenge any manufacturer or dealer for a fair field trial that the No. 11 OLIVER SULKY is lighter in draft, will turn the soil in better condition, turn all trash under better and leave your ground in better condition than any other Sulky Plow manufactured.

We have a good stock of Oliver Sulky and Walking Plows and Repairs on hand, and invite you to call and see me, and get prices before you buy.

To be the First to Wear the New Fashions Confers a Social Distinction

IN every community there are women of taste and refinement who are leaders of style, upon whom other women rely for the fixing of fashions. In catering to the requirements of these women who enjoy possessing the new garments at the earliest moment possible, we have planned this advance spring showing of smartly tailored presenting a wonderfully attractive collection of distinctly new garments; correct in style, refined in character, beautifully made of the most fashionable materials of the new season.

Now is the Best Time to Wear and Enjoy Them

The jackets of the new suits vary in length, some being even all around, some short in front, longer at the sides and still longer in the back. Some are form-fitting, some have straight lines to the waist with the graceful rippling flare below. The military motif is one of the influences of the new season.

Many of the coats are braided and trimmed with buttons in distinctly original effects. In every coat and suit the collar plays a most important part, supplying one of the main features of the style of the garment. The rolling military effect is most widely seen. Practically all of the coats have detachable over-collars of pique or silk.

The picture shows one of the charming new Wooltex coats. While the back is plain, the front shows a partial yoke effect. The rolling collar may be worn opened or closed. On some coats in this style, collar is piped with striped cloth. The godet under the arm, below the waist-line, produces a wonderfully smart wing-like flare which seems to spring out on each side of the coat. The coat is 40 inches long and is full-lined with peau de cygne. Price $18.50.

It is a particularly handsome model for large women. There are many other equally attractive models at the same popular price, $18.50.

Other Wooltex coats at $16.50 and $20.

Wooltex suits at $25, $30 and $35.

If you have not yet seen the new collection, we cordially invite you to come and view the garments at your earliest convenience.

ing the Germans, a most difficult one. First, on account of the magnificent organization of the German imperial government reaching all phases of public and domestic life, and which causes measures for the conservation of food stuffs to be carried out conscientiously and to the letter. Already orders have been issued as to the acreage of food stuffs and fodder to be planted this spring. And secondly, because Germany still has traffic connections with Holland, Denmark and Switzerland. And then they can draw supplies from Norway, Sweden, Roumania, Bulgaria and Italy. It does not look—in spite of French temptation and liberal use of money among the Italian mobs by the French Ambassador—as if Italy would swerve from virtue. She is growing enormous quantities of vegetables, fruit, rice, etc., and must export to maintain her balance of payment. While Germany is being hampered on all sides and is practically cut off from the sea, a great many former consumers of Italian goods are also cut off, and there will be a surplus to be shipped to Germany, because it can not go anywhere else.

Then there is another factor that is very potent in an emergency of the present kind. No blockade, no closing of frontiers, no arrangements between authorities, will ever prevent the trickling through of considerable materials to the best payer.

Before the Germans permit themselves to be starved, the immense alien population, including a half a million of prisoners of war, will certainly be the first to suffer.

By the way—late dispatches announce that London is likely to face a famine. The interruption of ocean and sea traffic, caused by the German submarine blockade affects England the same as if suddenly all railroad traffic entering a large city, like Indianapolis, is stopped. Everybody knows what effect the stoppage of railroad traffic has on cities. The latest announcement that England will blockade the German coast can have no material additional effect, as a blockade has practically existed for some time, and on account of which the Germans started the "submarine blockade," a warfare which is a new departure and a wonder and a surprise to the nations of the world.

Another important feature of this war must be given due consideration. And that is that Germany occupies practically all of Belgium and about one-sixth of France, and a large part of Poland. Belgium is known to be a great agricultural and manufacturing country. The Germans have started many of the Belgian factories, especially those which can be used in the manufacture of military clothing and other war materials. The war has paralyzed French industry almost completely. The northern part of France occupied by the Germans is the best agricultural and fruit region, including the famous champagne district. Besides in this occupied territory are some of France's most important manufacturing industries and famous iron, salt and other mineral mines, without which France cannot manufacture iron. The Germans are operating the valuable iron and other mines by stock companies of German manufacturers.

The part of Poland occupied by the Germans is the principal industrial and manufacturing district of Russia, particularly the city of Lodz. Outside this district, there is little manufacturing in Russia, except such industries which are related to agriculture.

It seems that the strategy of the Germans was not aimed so much at capturing capitals, as to strike a severe blow at industrial centers of the enemy, and in this they certainly have succeeded. Besides this, all the military operations are carried on in the enemy's country, and thus Germany is practically carrying on the enemy's expense and inconvenience.

Denver has a considerable German and Austrian population. Many of these are grouped daily in front of the newspaper bulletin boards. Sometimes I mingle among them and listen to the conversation and arguments. I find that they are considerably incensed on account of the one-sided, or at least indifferent, attitude of neutrality of the United States government in the present war. England can seize American vessels with impunity and confiscate their cargoes without any firm protest. But when Germany adopts a war measure—the only kind open to her—this administration flares up in great indignation and makes strong protests.

The greatest piece of hypocrisy ever perpetrated by any government was President Wilson's official appointment of a day of prayer for peace, while war material is being shipped in immense quantities by this country to sustain and prolong the war. It is like if two boys were fighting. A man steps up and admonishes them that it is wrong to fight, they must do it, etc., etc., and meanwhile he secretly slips a club to one of the combatants. Would anybody think the action of this "peacemaker" was right? This is exactly the position of the United States today in this great world-war. The Germans say they do not ask any favors, but they do want "fair play." The Germans in this country do not say much to outsiders, but among themselves they use strong language censuring the administration, and particularly Bryan, who, having an English son-in-law, is quite pro-English.

Mistaken Diagnosis — Doctors Guess Wrong Again.

About five years ago I wrote to you that I had been a terrible sufferer from kidney and bladder troubles, and that my physician informed me that my left kidney was in such condition that there was no hope for my recovery. I was advised to try your Swamp-Root as a last resort, and after taking four fifty-cent size bottles, I passed a gravel stone which weighed ten grains. I afterwards forwarded you this gravel stone. Have had no return of any trouble since that time and cannot say too much in favor of your wonderful preparation, Swamp-Root, which cures, after physicians fail. Very truly yours

Letter From Germany

J. Feudner Receives a Letter From His Sister Which Tells of Conditions in Germany—Other Information Not Found in the Anglo-Tinged War News!

Last November I sent a letter to my sister in Germany requesting her to write me concerning conditions in Germany since the war broke out. My native home is about a hundred miles from the battle front in France or a little further than from Rushville to Cincinnati. But of course, the military operations and the operations of the commissary and hospital departments and supply trains, extend for quite a distance back of the firing line, so that probably the entire distance from my home to the trenches in France are more or less in the zone of war operations.

Below is a translation of a letter I have received from my sister. It was mailed February 8th and arrived at Rushville on the 25th, and was then forwarded to me here in Denver. The letter was not sealed. This I understand is the new regulation during the war, and letters going to Germany should likewise be left unsealed. Over which route the letter came I am unable to say—certainly not by way of England. My sister writes as follows:

"You are probably informed concerning this frightful world-war How Germany—which DID NOT WANT the war—is surrounded by so many enemies. But our valiant soldiers have so far kept the enemy from our soil, and we fervently hope that finally the victory will be ours, because a just cause certainly will not succumb.

"It is most lamentable that so many young people must sacrifice their lives and so many cripples are coming back. Everybody wishes and hopes that this horrible war will soon come to an end.

"Germany still has many reserve soldiers and new regiments are constantly forming and are sent to the front. New recruits are continually being drawn and drilled. All the military barracks are crowded and the balance of the soldiers are quartered with the people in the various counties. We ourselves had to feed and take care of eight men for four months. The soldiers have now been transferred to other counties.

"A 'juvenile defense' has been organized all over Germany of the young men between 16 and 20 years. These are being exercised and drilled in the military tactics. In all cities, towns and villages the women have formed societies to work for the army.

"Now when field work begins in the spring the children will have to help more than ever, because farm labor is scarce—the best of it being at the front.

"What a terror it caused when it was announced that war had been declared, and in the midst of the harvest our young people had to drop everything and join the colors. The horses were also requisitioned and the men had to go, and then when the Germans were favored with victory upon victory, it was thought the horrible war would soon come to an end. But so many new enemies entered against Germany and the end is not yet. We trust that God, who has so far stood by us, will help further.

"It is said that England is determined to starve out the Germans, but we hope it will not come to this, because we have plenty of supplies to last until the next harvest, notwithstanding that Germany has to feed so many prisoners of war."

England will find the job of starv-
